New Hospital Probes Death Of Boy, 5

Death of a 5-year-old boy after surgery this morning has led authorities at Appleton Memorial hospital to suspect there may be a mechanical failure in lines supplying oxygen and nitrous oxide to one of the surgery rooms.

Robert Griffiths, hospital administrator, said a thorough investigation is being made of all mechanical equipment and operative procedure to determine if mechanical failure could have contributed to the death of Kim Ivan Thede, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman J. Thede, route 1, Appleton.

The Thede boy was admitted Sunday afternoon and underwent surgery for removal of his tonsils and adenoids this morning.

Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said the boy failed to respond after surgery. It is believed, although not established, that through a mechanical error, nitrous oxide was supplied, rather than oxygen. Hospital authorities reported earlier that the possible error in the hook-up in the operating room and that of the administration of the gas by the anesthetist was proper.

The hook-up is correct in the other three operating rooms; it was reported.

Griffiths said that use of the gas and oxygen lines built into the hospital structure will be halted until a complete check is made. Small tanks, attached to the anaesthesia machine, completely independent of the line system, now are being used.

An autopsy is being performed.

Packers Will Have Training At St. Norbert's

Green Bay — A St. Norbert college at West De Pere will be the new training headquarters for the Green Bay Packers, General Manager Verne C. Lewellen announced today.

The executive board of the National Football League club approved an agreement worked out by Lewellen and the Rev. D. M. Burke, college president, for the use of facilities at St. Norbert.

For the last four years the Packers trained at Central State college at Stevens Point, and from 1951 to 1953, inclusive, at Grand Rapids, Mich. The last time they trained in Green Bay was 1950 when pre-season drills were held at old City stadium.

Labor Rackets Probe Delayed

Washington — A bipartisan senate rackets investigating committee meets behind closed doors today to thresh out a partisan row.

The dispute already has delayed "at least" until tomorrow the start of public hearings into actions of both sides in a 4-year-old continuing strike involving the United Auto Workers union and the Kohler Co.

The union and the Kohler, Wis., plumbing fixtures firm each has blamed the other for outbreaks of bitter violence in the strike.

The senate committee's four Republican and four Democratic members have split evenly over which side — and which witnesses — should have first chance to tell its side of the case.

Nation Strong And Healthy, President Says

Assails 'People of Little Faith and Little Spirit'

Washington — President Eisenhower said today that "America is strong, America is healthy" and this is "no time to listen to the people who are men of little faith, little spirit."

Eisenhower spoke to a national food conference, but his words appeared beamed directly at former President Harry S. Truman.

At a Democratic money raising dinner in his honor, Truman hit into the Eisenhower administration Saturday night. He said it had brought five years of "economic misrule" which produced a Republican recession in the United States and had damaged confidence in this country overseas.

Hails Nation's Strength

Hitting back without the use of names, Eisenhower said the nation is stronger than it is represented to be by people who are "wailing" about conditions. These are times for courage and common sense, Eisenhower said. These, he said, can prevent what he acknowledged is an economic dip from becoming serious.

Other Republicans started sniping back angrily over the weekend, but the White House said Eisenhower had no comment.

Then he went over to the Statler hotel to extend greetings to the food conference and cut loose a bit.

Eisenhower upheld the actions of his administration on both the home front and in foreign affairs, and put in a strong bid for support of his foreign aid program.

Eisenhower said that while "we have nothing to fear either from ourselves or others" we must do the things necessary to maintain our security and promote a lasting peace.

We can help other countries, our allies and the uncommitted areas, he said, by keeping up the flow of foreign aid. One form of this, he said, is foodstuffs.

E. A. Meyer Dies At Menominee

Menominee, Mich. — Edwin A. Meyer, 66, chairman of the board of the Badger Paper Mills, Inc., of Peshtigo, Wis., died at his home here Sunday night after a heart attack.

Meyer founded the Peshtigo firm in 1929 and was its president and general manager until January, 1957, when he became board chairman. He was a former president and general manager of the Menasha Printing and Carton Co., which became the Marathon Corp.

His wife, one son Edwin A. Jr., secretary of Badger, and a daughter, Mrs. Daniel F. Coffey Jr., Marinette, survive.

Prospective Bride Missing in New York

New York — Twenty-five detectives today joined the search for pretty Irene Arzdi, whose mysterious disappearance five hours before her wedding Saturday left police and her family baffled.

A special police detail last night scoured the area around Miss Arzdi's Brooklyn home, but turned up no clues to indicate whether the 29-year-old bride disappeared voluntarily or was abducted.

A 13-state police alarm sent Saturday night has also proved unavailing.

Whiteside Assails Schwartz as 'Liar'

Charges Dismissed Counsel Has Withheld Information

Washington — Thurman A. Whiteside, Miami lawyer, denounced Bernard Schwartz as "an unmitigated liar" today for having connected him with a television channel applicant and for suggesting he passed money to a federal communications commissioner.

Whiteside, testifying under oath before a special house investigating subcommittee, accused Schwartz, dismissed committee counsel, of withholding information from the group.

He said Schwartz knew there was a long record of loan transactions between Whiteside and Richard A. Mack going back five years before Mack became a member of the federal communications commission.

Money Called Loans

Schwartz told the committee earlier in its hearing that Whiteside had turned over at least $2,650 to Mack. Schwartz raised a question whether this was intended to influence Mack's vote in the contest for Miami TV Channel 10.

Both Mack and Whiteside had described the money as loans, Schwartz added.

Whiteside said Schwartz had further testified Whiteside was employed as an attorney by National Airlines or its subsidiary Public Service Television, Inc., which won the contest for the Miami channel.

Whiteside said Schwartz knew this "was untrue prior to the time he gave his testimony."

"To that extent he bears false witness and is an unmitigated liar," the Miami attorney told the subcommittee in deliberate tones.

Whiteside said Schwartz

Man Rescued From Well After 8 Hours

Cambridge City, Ind. — Wilbur Harold, 42, called in professional well diggers today and stayed away from the 20-foot hole in which he was trapped for eight hours.

"I'm out of the well digging business," said Harold, a feed grinder by trade. He showed no ill effects from the ordeal in the well under his house at East Germantown, from which he was rescued early yesterday.

Harold had gone down into the well Saturday to remove a broken water pipe. He built a mortared wall of concrete blocks to protect himself from cave-ins but shale and gravel tumbled against the blocks and pushed them against him, pinning him fast.

Both Parties May Propose Tax Reduction

Action Indicated Only if Economy Does Not Improve

Washington — Both the Eisenhower administration and Democratic leaders in congress may swing into action with recovery measures—including tax cut proposals—if the economy doesn't pick up next month.

However, some Republican leaders professed to see signs that the economy is about to stage a comeback.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell said "I would think so" when he was asked yesterday if it was the consensus of the cabinet that a tax cut should be proposed if unemployment continues to rise next month.

Predicts More Jobs

But Mitchell said he expects unemployment to decline in March after reaching a peak of perhaps 4,600,000 or 4,700,000 jobs this month. Unemployment in January was reported as nearly 4½ million, or 5.8 per cent of the total civilian working force.

There already are signs the employment situation is improving, the labor secretary said in a television interview. But he said if the business lag should get worse the administration will "do whatever is necessary" to reverse the trend.

Sen. Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, said that if things don't start looking better in March the Democrats in congress will "move immediately into the breach" with legislation now being drafted. Mansfield didn't specifically mention tax reduction, but it is known Democratic congressional leaders are considering such action.

Approval Due for New Debt Limit

Washington — The senate is expected to pass today a bill increasing the $275 billion national debt limit to $280 billion until June 30, 1959.

President Eisenhower asked for the temporary $5 billion increase soon after congress met in January, and the house passed the bill overwhelmingly by Jan. 23.

But the measure has been held up in the senate finance committee headed by Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), an ardent advocate of a tight debt ceiling.

Byrd proposed that the limit be limited to $3 billion more than the amount of the federal debt on April 1, 1950, five years before Mack's appointment and total last Thursday to reject his proposal and approve the administration bill.

Peron's Support Seen as Decisive for New Chief; Reds Also Among Backers

Buenos Aires — Gaunt, bespectacled Arturo Frondizi, a left-wing intellectual, is the president-elect of Argentina. The support of banished dictator Juan D. Peron apparently was a decisive factor in his landslide victory.

Frondizi ran far ahead of middle-of-the-road Ricardo Balbin yesterday in Argentina's first free presidential election in more than a decade. Nine other opponents trailed way behind.

Both are attorneys and represent left and right wings of the radical party — a conservative group despite its name. Balbin ran for president against Peron in 1952 and Frondizi was No. 2 man on the ticket.

But Frondizi's intransigent radical party collected votes from many of the strong-arm segments of Argentina's political spectrum this time. His backers ranged from communists to labor to Peronists and fascist splinter parties.

With returns from 39,347 out of 41,361 precincts in, interior ministry figures showed Frondizi had polled 3,967,549 votes to Balbin's 2,481,512 and that 678,377 blank ballots had been cast.

During his campaign Frondizi pledged amnesty for all Peronists and that "includes everybody." But he never specifically indicated Peron, which raised speculation whether Frondizi would let the banished dictator come back.

Last night Frondizi said the first job of the new congress would be to enact a general amnesty law governing all parties and including those now in jail for their politics.

Peron's current refuge in the Dominican Republic, Peron today hailed Frondizi's victory as the result of the implied support he gave him. Peron said he would consider a return to his homeland, but planned a trip "to rest" first. He did not elaborate.

Peron claimed the election did not really represent the majority view because Peronists were banned from campaigning or running openly under their true colors.

"We Peronists... know what we want and march straight to its execution," the banished dictator said. "Each Peronist has his instructions and their leaders the directives to fulfill them."

Peron's instructions from abroad had been confusing, however, and the lagging official returns showed about 8 per cent of the voters still casting the blank ballots the Peronists employed in the constituent assembly elections last July. The earlier vote two million persons — about a fourth of those voting — cast blanks.

Reds Surprise Him

Frondizi courted the Peronists openly during the campaign. He professed surprise when the communists withdrew their support to him and denied ever having any "direct or indirect" contact with the Reds.

Despite what appeared to be a pile of political debts to pay off, Frondizi declared after his victory: "I have no commitment."

Expects Early Release of Cuban Race Driver Believed in Rebel Hands

Havana — A Cuban race driver believed to be in the hands of Cuban rebels is expected to be released soon, authorities here said today.

As embarrassed police searched for Fangio's abductor, the champion's manager, leader Fidel Castro was quick to claim responsibility. A rebel spokesman telephoned the harm Fangio and would release him soon after the race. He said he had not made contact with the rebels.

Giambertone said it was his belief the rebels would feel satisfied with having created champion was in any danger, alarm and difficulties in the Gran Premio if they kept Fangio holding him in an attempt to force prisoner until after the force cancellation of the auto races—slated to start at 2 p.m.—and thus give Batista an international black eye.

But Brig. Gen. Roberto Fernandez Miranda, head of the national sports commission, said after conferring at length with a group of the drivers, informants, he believed the rebels would release the race would be held on world lightweight boxing schedule. He termed the champion Joe Brown who is kidnapping "monstrous."

The kidnapping probably also was intended to throw a scare into Cuba's big tourist industry for his 10-round non-title fight Wednesday night against Ray.

Asks Extension Of Trade Law

Agreements Vital To Free World, Dulles Declares

Washington — Secretary of State Dulles told congress today there is even greater danger from international communism's "political-economy warfare" than from open armed attack.

"The trade agreement act stands as a worldwide symbol of enlightened statesmanship," Dulles said in pleading for President Eisenhower's requested 5-year extension of the law.

"Failure to renew and strengthen that act... would set back the clock and endanger our republic and each and every person in it," he said.

Faces Battle

Dulles appeared before the tariff-writing house ways and means committee in the face of potent opposition to extension of the reciprocal trade program. Without congressional action, it would expire June 30.

Many house members, including most Republicans on the committee, have been cold about continuing the act which they say hurts American industry. They have been pushing for raising, rather than lowering tariff barriers.

Dulles pictured the law as helpful to America's own economy and needed for free world strength against the communist threat.

"It would be a great mistake to assume that the only danger our nation faces is that from open armed attack," the secretary of state testified. "The greater danger comes from the political-economic warfare of international communism."

He said red strategy involves subverting one country after another until finally the United States is isolated.

Boy Slain, Second Wounded After Their Kidnaping

Newhall, Calif. — An East Los Angeles boy was shot to death and another was wounded after being kidnaped in gangland style, sheriff's deputies said today.

Gerald R. Delao, 14, was killed. George Rodriguez, 13, was wounded in the arm.

The shooting occurred last night in Soledad canyon, 10 miles northeast of here, after the boys were dumped out of their abductors' car, officers said they were told.

Two youths were arrested early today in East Los Angeles for questioning. Deputy Al Edsel said Lorenzo Castro, 18, and Ruben Ramos, 20, were booked on suspicion of murder, kidnapping and attempted murder.

A motorist picked up the Rodriguez boy on the highway late last night. The boy led police to his companion's body. Edsel said he was told that a number of youths yesterday afternoon in a theater where Castro was employed as an usher.

GOP Claims Truman Talk Fosters Fear

Former President's Broadside on 'Economic Misrule' Could Bring Depression, Republicans Assert

Washington — P — Republicans accused former President Truman today of conducting a "fear" campaign they said could bring about an economic depression.

Truman's Saturday night broadside against the "economic misrule" he said had produced a Republican recession was assailed by leading GOP senators as a disservice to efforts to slow the business downturn and to lift employment.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) said that this is not a period when "men who have been in high places can afford to ignore their responsibilities."

Citing income and employment statistics, Wiley said the country is not going to the dogs. He added:

"But if the people are going to continue to be told that everything is haywire they are

Stuck Pig Always Squeals: Harry

New York — P — Former President Harry S. Truman chuckled today over Republican reactions to his Saturday night speech in Washington and said: "You know a stuck pig always squeals."

In further comment on GOP criticism of his speech—in which he blamed the Eisenhower administration for the domestic recession and reverses in international affairs—Truman said "that's the customary reaction. It was weak and it offered nothing constructive."

going to get in a mental condition where they will stop spending and then anything could happen. What Harry Truman is doing is creating fear of the worst kind.

Cynical, Untrue
Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) agreed, while nearly a score of other Republicans issued weekly statements criticizing various parts of Truman's speech Saturday night at a $100-a-plate dinner.

The statements used such words as irresponsible, cynical, untrue, demagogic and reckless in describing the former president's speech.

But Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) said he agrees with Truman's statements that the country is "tired of being bamboozled by the Republicans" and is likely to give the Democrats sweeping victories in this year's congressional races and in the 1960 presidential contest.

"The big issue in this year's campaign is spuds and not sputniks," Mansfield said in an interview. "If the people don't have the spuds, there won't be any more sputniks as far as we are concerned."

Truman said that the results of five years of Republican White House rule could be added up in five million or more unemployed, millions more working part time, increasing bankruptcies, neglected school programs, over-crowded colleges and hospitals and highways in need of rebuilding.

The former president's talk was televised nationally. Adlai E. Stevenson, who spoke to one section of the double-header dinner, said that five years of Republican rule had been "stained by heavy failure in many areas—the excesses of McCarthyism, the disintegration of our alliances, the loss of confidence in us abroad, the decay in our military position and now the decline in our economic vitality."

Economic Policies
Truman ranged the field of criticism of President Eisenhower and his administration's foreign and domestic policies. But Republicans concentrate in their rebuttal on Truman's caustic comparison of Democratic and Republican economic policies.

Truman implied that if the Democrats were returned to power, the country could be assured of prosperity.

Case said that if Truman really wants to see the country's economy bolstered "he has shown a poor way of doing it."

"If there is a seasonal recession now, Harry seems to be doing his best to turn it into a psychological depression to support the cries of the Democratic national committee that the country is going to pot," Case said.

Gates Labels Red Party a Living Corpse

Madison — P — John Gates, who edited the Communist Daily Worker in New York City until several weeks ago, said Sunday night the communist party in the U. S. is a "living corpse."

Gates, who spoke to about 500 persons at a University of Wisconsin lecture, said the party has been breaking up for the past two years. He predicted that it will cease to exist in the U. S. in a short time.

Gates announced last month that he was leaving the party after 27 years.

He said the U. S. needs a courageous radical movement carried out within the framework of the constitution. A political realignment among farmers, labor, Negroes, scientists and middle class professional people in the U. S., he said, would help achieve his social aims.

Asked in a question and answer period where he would begin if he were to make social changes in the U. S., Gates said big business regulation would be a logical starting point.

Referring to the current federal communications commission investigation in Washington, he said the machinery for regulation of industry exists but fails to operate because it is staffed with persons who are sympathetic to the industry they are supposed to regulate.

Red Chinese Step-Up Shelling of Quemoy

Taipei, Formosa — P — Communist Chinese artillery leveled its heaviest attack in eight months on the nationalist outpost of Quemoy Sunday night, the defense ministry reported. It said nobody was hurt and the nationalist guns didn't reply.

Red guns lobbed 174 shells at the island just off mainland China. It was the most concentrated barrage since June 27, when the communists were credited with firing 191 rounds at Quemoy.

Begin Trial of Bishop On Defamation Charge

He Denounced Italian Couple as Public Sinners After Civil Marriage Ceremony

Florence, Italy — P — A court today opened the trial of a Roman Catholic bishop and his parish priest charged with defaming a couple after their legal civil marriage.

But neither the two defendants nor the plaintiff showed up.

The most Rev. Pietro Fiordelli, first Roman Catholic bishop called to trial since the Vatican and Mussolini signed the Lateran pact 29 years ago, served notice that neither he nor the Rev. Daniele Aiuzzi would appear.

"My prestige and the holiness of my ministry forbid me to come in person," Bishop Fiordelli wrote President Judge Antonio Paganelli. He added he had instructed Father Aiuzzi not to attend either.

The judge said the clerics would be tried in absentia. The plaintiff, Mauro Bellandi, 32-year-old grocer and wartime partisan fighter was too sick to appear. He suffered a stroke several months ago. His wife, 23-year-old Liorana, came with their small baby and couldn't get in the packed courtroom until police cleared the way for her.

Wide Controversy
The case, which broke nearly two years ago, has stirred a nationwide controversy over relations between church and state. It has attained particular importance in this election year with communists and other leftists seeking ammunition to use against the governing Christian democrats.

Mauro and Liorana married in a civil ceremony in 1956 because Bellandi had broken with the church. Several weeks later Father Aiuzzi read a letter in church from the bishop denouncing the couple as "public sinners" and Bellandi brought defamation charges.

Bellandi's attorneys said their client's health had been impaired by results of the bishop's letter. They claimed he had lost business and friends and was worried about his future. Communist and socialist deputies in parliament denounced the bishop's action as a violation of the Lateran concordat of 1929 establishing relations between the Vatican and the Italian government.

In his letter to Judge Paganelli, the bishop said his condemnation of the couple was within his rights as a bishop.

"The Italian constitution gives me full right to do so by proclaiming the independence and sovereignty between the church and the Italian state," he added.

If convicted, the bishop could get up to two years imprisonment or be fined 160,000 lire ($260). The priest could get up to three years if found guilty of making the letter public.

Retirement Funds Not Hurt By Stock Slump

Commission Says Higher Bond Prices More Than Offset Loss

Madison — P — Sharp increase in bond prices more than offset a common stock price slump on securities held by the state's two largest retirement funds, the state investment commission said Saturday.

In a statement issued after a special meeting, the commission said the actual gain in net assets of the two funds was more than $2 million during the 6-month period despite the common stock price decline.

The commission, an administrative arm of the state investment board, held the meeting after publication of a front page story in the Madison Capital Times.

The newspaper said: "The stock market decline and the national hard money policy dealt severe blows to the State Teachers' Retirement fund."

Financial reports for the 6-month period, the story said, showed a drop in market value of the stock assets of about $9 million.

Confusion
The commission said the story itself "may have caused some confusion to members of these funds concerning both the purpose and the status of the investment."

State law permits the commission to invest the funds in long term bonds, mortgages, improved real estate which is leased, common stocks and preferred stocks. The $272,700,000 in investments by the two funds last year showed a year-end return of $11,400,000, the commission said in the statement.

"Since the board will not be required to sell any securities held by these funds for cash purposes," the commission said, "short term fluctuations in security prices have little significance."

Top market value of the stocks and bonds held in the funds, the commission reported, is now $4,700,000 more than their original cost.

"The investment board's primary concern," the statement concluded, "is with a percentage of return on the assets of the funds and on the safety of the investments."

Report Woman Gives Birth Twice in Week

Baghdad, Iraq — P — An Iraqi woman has given birth twice within one week, a physician announced today.

He said the woman, who lives in the village of Tobji near Baghdad, gave birth to a girl at her home last week. The next day she felt unusual pains and went to a hospital. Two days later she produced twins—a boy and a girl.

The doctor said that although such a case was rare, it happened three times in Iraq last year.

Educators Tackle Long List Of Questions at Convention

St. Louis — P — How does the teaching of the three R's today compare with the way it was done years ago? Are the textbooks writers determining what shall be taught in the public schools? What can school superintendents do to improve their security and welfare?

These questions and 43 others were on the agenda today for nearly 9,000 public school administrators meeting in a regional convention.

About those three R's, for instance, in a prepared paper, R. Mitchell of Purdue university said comparing the schools of yesterday with the schools of today is like "comparing the Wright airplane with a modern jet transport."

He said tests galore have been taken over the years and they indicate: "Today's high school students compare favorably with, and are in many ways superior in achievement to, those of former times. The college-bound youth is as well prepared as his counterpart of previous years and the superior student is much better prepared."

The big difference, Mitchell said, is not in the student but in the type of education he's getting. Years ago only the brightest went beyond the eighth grade, now practically all do. Years ago the program of courses was strictly limited.

Now it covers a wide variety of academic and vocational subjects. Years ago there was little guidance of the student. Now it is a task of major importance. Years ago the controlling objective of a high school was preparation for college. Now it is designed to help the student serve all youth, college-bound school students compare favorably with, and are in many ways superior in achievement to, those of former times. The college-bound youth is as well prepared as his counterpart of previous years and the superior student is much better prepared."

Continue Investigation Into Helicopter Crash Which Killed 6 Airmen

Army Officers Says Pilots Had No Training to Cope With Heavy Fog

Red Bluff, Calif. — P — Investigation continued today into the crash of three army helicopters in blinding fog with death to six airmen. An army officer said the pilots had no training or instruments to cope with fog.

The three helicopters slammed into a rocky hill east of Red Bluff Saturday morning. There had been no collision. Flying at 200 to 300 feet elevation, the "copters encountered dense fog and clouds before they had a choice to avoid it," Col. Frank C. Forest reported. He is in charge of the army investigation.

Were Not Trained
"It is a distinct possibility that the pilots got vertigo and lost their sense of direction and speed," Forest said. "That's what happens when fliers are not trained to operate under conditions of fog or dense cloud."

"There were no blind flying instruments on the helicopters and the fliers were not trained or equipped to cope with such conditions."

The "copters were part of a flight of 21 being ferried from Ft. Riley, Kans., to Ft. Lewis, Wash. They are troop carrying helicopters but had only crew members aboard at the time of the crashes."

Wreckage of two craft was strewn 200 yards below the top of the hillside 15 miles east of Red Bluff. It caught fire and burned five of the six men killed. The third crashed copter did not break up and its three occupants were hurt only slightly.

A fourth helicopter was damaged slightly as it attempted to land near the crash scene. None of the dead was listed as from the middle west.

Proxmire Urges Thomson to Call For Benson Ouster

Washington — P — Sen. Proxmire (D-Wis.) today urged Wisconsin's Republican Gov. Vernon W. Thomson to request President Eisenhower to remove Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

Proxmire said the governor reportedly is coming here this week to discuss farm policies with federal officials.

In a telegram, Proxmire urged Thomson to "Join with Republican congressional leaders who are pleading with President Eisenhower to remove Secretary of Agriculture Benson from his cabinet."

Proxmire said Benson has "repeatedly shown his complete unwillingness to help farmers obtain better prices and incomes."

Referring to Benson's cut in dairy price supports, Proxmire said "The direction set by Mr. Benson for our state's greatest industry is leading to nothing less than disaster."

Suggests U. S., Red Meet on All Issues

Harvard Professor Says Russians Winning All Propaganda Victories

BY VICTOR I. MINAHAN, JR.
Editor of the Post-Crescent

Milwaukee — The United States should negotiate with the Russians about anything and everything, even when we are convinced such negotiations will produce no concrete results.

This proposal was made Saturday by Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, Harvard university professor, who is considered one of the nation's leading thinkers on foreign policy in the nuclear age, at the second Institute on United States Foreign Policy, sponsored by the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee.

Kissinger reasons that the U. S., by refusing to meet with the Russians, gives the world the impression we are afraid to negotiate; it puts us on the defensive and gives Russia the initiative. By bombarding us with proposals of various kinds the Kremlin gains propaganda victories, preventing us from getting our point of view heard in the world.

Kissinger declared we should meet with the Russians to prove that they really don't want to reach agreements on outstanding world problems. In other words, he said, call their bluff. And when we go to such meetings we should be the ones who make proposals that embarrass the Reds and show them up before the world, he said.

Outstanding Speaker
Kissinger, who rocketed to fame last year with the publication of his book, "Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy," was easily the star of Saturday's show here. The remarks of other headlined speakers, G. Frederick Reinhardt of the state department and Prof. Ragnar Rollefson of the University of Wisconsin physics department, seemed tame by comparison with the sharp, often witty thrusts of the 36-year-old Harvard professor of government.

Kissinger criticized Secretary of State Dulles for "absolutist" viewpoints, not only regarding negotiations with the Russians, but in his policy of threatening massive retaliation if the Reds attack anywhere in the world. Kissinger advocates the concept of limited nuclear war—the belief that we must be prepared to fight small wars with nuclear weapons, as well as being ready to fight an all-out world war.

Challenged from the floor as to whether a nuclear war ever could be kept from growing into a big war, Kissinger acknowledged that this could happen if the Russians were unwilling to risk a big war in order to win some local conflict. He believes, however, that such circumstances might well arise.

No Troop Withdrawals
But while he criticized Dulles, Kissinger also expressed sharp disagreement with George Kennan's proposal for a disengagement of U. S. and Russian forces in Europe. Disengagement can sometimes create a more explosive situation than engagement, he argued; it was our attempt to disengage ourselves in Korea that brought about the war there.

If both the U. S. and Russia were to withdraw their forces from Europe, revolt almost certainly would break out in the satellites, he asserted. This could happen at the very time when we would be abolishing our ability to help them," he pointed out.

Reinhardt, who substituted at the last minute for Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy, who was called to Europe by the Tunisian crisis, said it is still U. S. policy to meet with the Russians only when we are convinced there is some prospect of accomplishing something through such meetings.

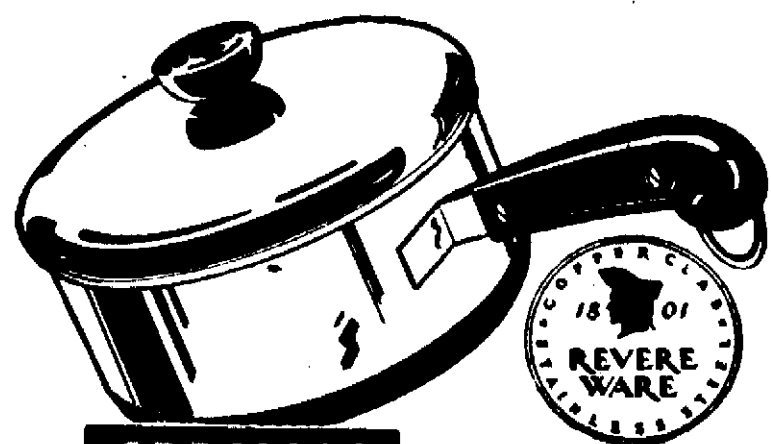

In the meantime we must maintain a position of strength, keep our alliances strong and continue the mutual security (foreign aid) program, he said.

Tariff Policy
Arguing for renewal of the president's reciprocal trade powers, Reinhardt said recent studies have shown that U. S. tariffs actually have not been lowered during the years such agreements have been in effect. The real effect of the program, he said, has been to keep our tariffs from going up.

Prof. Rollefson, chairman of the UW physics department and former chief scientist for the U. S. army, gave a scholarly review of this nation's scientific and weapons capabilities in comparison with Russia's. Asked whether the destructiveness of modern weapons will continue to become greater, he answered, "Yes, they will continue to become much worse."

The all-day institute was presided over by UWM Provost J. Martin Klotzsch. Between 300 and 400 people attended.

Marlowe Finds Way to Deduct $100,000 Yearly

Only Catch Is It Requires Million Dollar Income and Paintings to Make It Work

BY JAMES MARLOW

Washington — One nice way to save a whopping chunk on your income tax is to have a lot of income to start with — $100,000 Mortimer is deducting and some object of art, like an expensive painting, gives him a total, permitted deduction of $200,000, or 20 per cent. take Mortimer Mistletoe, a cent of his million-dollar income cat with an income of $1,000,000.

Like everyone else he's allowed to deduct up to 20 per cent of his taxable income for charitable contributions, pro- vided he actually gave that much to charity. For Mortimer the 20 per cent deduction on a $1 million income would be $200,000.

Only Gave $100,000 But Mortimer's trouble was that he never gave $200,000 a year to charity. In fact, he never managed to hand out more than 10 per cent — or $100,000 — of his one million that way.

He'd still like to find some way to deduct the maximum $200,000 allowed him. Then he hits on an idea which the internal revenue service has approved. It's an idea which already may be at work in some art museum you visit.

For instance: You may see a picture adorned with the name of some individual and the information that the picture is on loan from him to the museum.

Deeds Paintings This is what Mortimer does. He has some paintings worth one million dollars. He decides to let some public art gallery have the use of them for part of the year.

Say that in his case it was one-tenth of a year, although he could make it one-twelfth or one-twentieth or some other fraction of 12 months.

But when he lets the art gallery have his pictures for one-tenth of a year, it isn't a loan. He must deed the pictures to the gallery for one-tenth of the year. He keeps them in his home for the other nine-tenths.

For deeding the pictures to the gallery for one-tenth of a year he can knock one-tenth of their worth off his income tax.

Farmers Union Delays Plans For Election

Voting Called Off When President Suffers Flu Relapse

La Crosse — Delegates attending the Wisconsin Farmers Union annual convention ended their meeting Sunday by postponing the election of officers for an indefinite period.

Kenneth Hones of Chippewa Falls, the incumbent president now in his 25th year as head of the organization, reportedly suffered a relapse of flu and was taken home. Prior to the convention, his associates said, Hones was confined to bed for a week with flu.

Hones was reelected a director of the organization Saturday despite a move by the Committee for a Better Wisconsin Farmers Union to block his nomination. The committee sought Hones' ouster from the board of directors to make him ineligible to run for another term as president.

Dictatorial Tactics Glen Jenkins of Elmwood, secretary of the committee, has accused Hones of using dictatorial tactics and said the WFU membership slipped from 19,000 to 10,000 in the last few years because the group was being operated as a political machine.

Jenkins said the main objection of his committee concerned the present method of electing directors. He said they should be elected by the districts they represent rather than the entire membership.

Convention officials said Sunday that no date for the election of officers was set but that balancing farm living.

King Saud Offers Help In Egyptian, Sudanese Dispute Cairo — A Sudanese embassy spokesman said today King Saud of Saudi Arabia has offered his help to Egypt and Sudan in achieving a solution of their border controversy.

The crisis eased over the weekend when the Egyptian government canceled a plebiscite it had scheduled in the disputed area. Egypt also proposed postponement of further discussions until after the Sudanese elections and formation of a new Sudan government.

The Sudanese spokesman said these steps partly met his government's demands but he complained Egyptian election officials and army troops accompanying them still are inside the disputed region along the Red Sea. The Egyptians say these armed units are police.

Former Grand Opera Star Found Retirement Painful

BY GERALDINE FARRAR

Ridgefield Conn. —(AP)— The transition from strenuous public routine to relative retirement to private life was dictated by an early experience which made a sad and unhappy impression on me.

As a teen-age opera enthusiast at the Metropolitan in those blissful days when half a dollar would admit one to the Olympian delights near the stage, among the standees, I saw coming through the Broadway entrance the haggard remains of a once handsome woman.

First of Series

Something in her carriage was vaguely familiar, an usher replying to my inquiry as to whom she might be, mentioned a name well known in an earlier opera decade; her current sporadic appearances on stage portrayed a person sadly clinging to a onetime acclaim.

Faded Grandeur

As this picture of faded grandeur swept down the aisle, I was seized with compassion and distaste, at the same time.

An aging future trying to recapture former glory is never a pleasing spectacle; but as a human being, indeed a pathetic silhouette.

Perhaps this might apply to any renowned paragon in public activity, when discretion does not point to fields commensurate with the implacable onrush of the years.

The transition and abdication from public service need not be alarming nor distressing serious reflection and consideration; but the decision does take erable soul-searching.

The richness of years point to new vistas, and can offer illuminating adventure. This will pertain more to the inner demands, than the outgoing expression of one's ego.

Life at any age is as one makes it; but to be successful, must be a ready acceptance of the changes that unroll before one, like a rich tapestry always at the service of the guiding needle . . . that useful article being one's intelligent understanding.

New Focus Needed

Those qualities that were fused with pride, and directed toward attainments, must be brought into another focus, which is living with one's self.

The domain will be a private one, without headlines. Perhaps a bit strange at first, but richly rewarding with intimate acquaintance.

One of the nicest attributes value. The courage to look at will be the friends we have known how to cherish. These make the best of what is grows loyal ones will enjoy something of yourself, afar from the fairy-land adulation.

For a career dedicated to high purpose must be self-centered and not infrequently ruthless in the pursuit of it.

There is no time for boredom or laziness; but there is as well, too little time for self-examination.

However, the discipline necessary works all to the good for the later years, with its own code of honor, pride and integrity.

As in the musical world one tried to tread the path of high tradition, and aim for the never-never-land of perfection, the intense application fits one for matters far more serious than exuberant singing.

Everyone Has Problems

I consider myself most fortunate to have had parents who communicated to me their independence of spirit, and forthright respect for good conduct in all walks of life.

They held to the inescapable fact, that all people must meet problems, no matter what outstanding gifts may have urged an individual to a front line beyond others.

Self-reliance is more than an Emersonian essay, though it could and did point the way and things the way they are and make the best of what is grows mony must be the ultimate achievement. Personally, I cannot imagine any one in possession of their normal sense, being so cowardly as to invite the negative enemies of a happy spirit. To be sure, there are active years of youth, and reflective ones as well; the tempo agitato of the first period resolves into the natural tempo moderato with time. Thus the symphony of living embodies both extremes, each appropriate to its period.

I also think that the nefarious slogan, in our professional world, of "the show must go on," is a dangerous and useless tradition. Many suffer from it, and often pay with their health and lives. Such a misguided gesture of one's ego.

There is certainly much more to this world of joys than dragging about the ghost of unwise insistence in any given avenue. But these joys are not obtainable by tense and dissatisfied longings for the impossible, and refusal to face facts.

There is no cosmetic that can erase the traces of gay laughter of a happy heart, no eye shadow that will brighten the dull eye of disinterest. It is always the unquenchable inner spirit that glows with a precious communication; this endures to the end, and then beyond.

Junior Ghosts Take Early Lead, Hold Edge Throughout

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna High school Jayvee eagles jumped off to a big first quarter lead over the New London Bees here Saturday night and then coasted to a 41 to 34 win.

The Junior Ghosts had the game in control all the way but a last quarter rally in which the Bulldogs tallied 13 points to six for Kaukauna made the game appear closer than it really was.

The winners took a 17 to 4 lead at the end of the first quarter and by halftime had increased the margin to 27 to 10. The teams battled on fairly even terms in the third period but Kaukauna still outscored the losers 10 to 9 in the quarter.

Coach Wayne Welch began using reserves freely in the final quarter and the Bulldogs began to fight back into contention. At one point the losers pulled to within five points of Kaukauna but this was the closest they could come.

Jim Steger paced the winners with 17 points followed by Myron Zachowski with 10 markers. Bill Glocke led the losers with 10 points.

The Miracle of Corn

The announcement of the awards made in the annual Pacemakers Corn club competition brought a nostalgic memory of Uncle Jim, one of the best farmers who ever turned sod in Wisconsin, as far as our proud memory is concerned.

Uncle Jim farmed during a long and contented lifetime, and in his time the farmer who produced 50 bushels of corn to the acre on a typical Wisconsin farm was the envy of his neighborhood. We are pretty confident, moreover, that had any whippersnapper ever essayed to tell him that a Wisconsin farmer would some day produce 160 bushels to the acre he would have responded with all of the eloquent scorn he could so easily command:

"Buster, the trouble with you is that you know so many things that ain't so."

It is only a few years, as agricultural history is measured, since Uncle Jim's prime as a tiller of his well-loved soil, but now corn yields that would have seemed unbelievable in his day are matter-of-factly reported in the farm press. The average yield for the 552 corn fields entered in the agricultural extension service contest this year, representing a broad swath of the crop land of the state, was a bulging 101.2 bushels to the acre.

In this competition farmers carefully follow fertilizer and other prescriptions of the soil scientists. The results are breathtaking to the city observer whose own rural experiences date back a generation or more, although they are probably commonplace to today's scientific farmers.

Here is powerful proof of the immense strides agriculture has made in our lifetimes. Perhaps in no other period since primitive man first learned to turn earth over a grain of barley has agricultural production advanced as swiftly as during the last quarter of a century. The phenomenon of 100 bushels to the acre production in test farms in 38 Wisconsin counties also shows the nature of the frustrating dilemma of the individual farmer.

He knows that collectively farmers have produced a difficult surplus problem. He knows that the quickest solution and the surest guarantee of fair prices in the market is for a reduction of those depressing surpluses. Yet as an individual he feels that he can only expand his effort in order to get the benefits of high volume and low cost production. The crux of the agricultural problem in America, one that has been faced by no other great nation in history, is the resolution of the conflict between the instinct of the individual and the interest of the group.

Wealthy Cannot Escape Headlines

Most people in the newspaper business have been told again and again that people with money can keep their names out of print or that they get off easier in print or in court because they are wealthy. It is an annoying charge, and difficult to answer without examples at hand although in fact the opposite is usually true.

Consider the case of Donald Bronston in Milwaukee. He is the son of a millionaire and earns a salary of $10,000 per year. However, when he needed $70 to pay a gambling debt he slugged a woman clerk in a beer depot in an attempt to get the money by robbery. The woman screamed and Bronston fled without getting the money.

He was soon captured and identified, and immediately his story made the front pages across the nation. If some unknown person without funds or wealthy connections had failed in such a robbery attempt the story wouldn't have made the front pages even in Milwaukee.

The case illustrates what everyone knows if they stop to think about it — that the wealthy are the ones who get the headlines for wrongdoing. This is a fact that cannot be changed by anyone, including the newspapers.

Bronston's act became news for several reasons. Millionaires' sons are commonly supposed to have the advantages of education, training and association with cultured people which prevent them from becoming bandits. Furthermore they are supposed to have money which would obviate the need for robbery. Finally this young man had money in amounts so generous that people find it difficult to understand how he could bring himself to attempt to steal the hard-earned cash of others who have no responsibility for his debts.

People of wealth and prominence are news. Their most ordinary activities call for news treatment sometimes. Their unusual acts call for flaming headlines. It is that way because newspaper readers are curious about and interested in people of wealth and prominence.

Ten Years With the VNA

People who have moved to Appleton in recent years might find it hard to believe that the city's Visiting Nurse association was founded only 10 years ago. The VNA has made itself such a vital part of our community life that even oldtimers may have forgotten that it is a relative youngster as service agencies go.

The VNA was founded to answer a very important though relatively unpublicized need — the need for home nursing services for the bedridden, the aged, the chronically ill. Soon after it was organized it found itself called upon to provide many other health services needed by the community — education for expectant mothers and fathers, a "loan closet" of therapeutic appliances, a hearing testing service for industry to mention only a few. Today it is difficult to imagine Appleton without a VNA.

From the beginning the VNA's leaders insisted on a sound financial operation. The VNA raised its own funds for several years before applying for membership in the Community Fund, on the theory that it should prove its community support before asking to be a part of a community-wide drive. Since joining the Fund, the VNA has returned unexpended moneys almost every year.

Soon the VNA will embark on its most ambitious project — construction of an old people's home, thus filling another important community need. A good start has been provided by money from the George Peabody will and contribution by the city of the old Jefferson school site; this is only a start, however. A lot of work and considerably more money are going to have to be expended before the home becomes a reality.

As with so many of our other community agencies, the lifeblood of the VNA is the willingness of civic-minded people to give generously of their time and energies to keep it going. Surely, this is one of the most wonderful aspects of community life in America.

Political Campaigns and Lotteries

The Wisconsin Democratic party for a time considered the operation of a lottery as a means of financing the upcoming campaign. They have since announced that the lottery plan has been abandoned and the party will attempt to gather its funds by the usual methods.

We are sure the best counsel prevailed in this decision. It is easily possible to set up a legal method of bringing in funds from persons who hope to win a prize through some test of skill rather than outright chance. This method might have brought in considerable money for the party, but it was pretty obvious that the party leaders were afraid of public reaction. Some were bound to object to it as a lottery and an evasion of the law, and that may be why

Against Sales Tax

Editor, Post-Crescent:

After reading and hearing for so many weeks of all the unemployment and business depression in the state and country, I was shocked to read that the Chamber of Commerce is seriously trying to push through a sales tax. Is that the answer to give aid to the man who has been laid off for an undetermined length of time, and the man that has a large family to feed and clothe? To me it is absolutely sinful to have to buy food, and pay an added tax for the "privilege!"

Think, too, of the added work for the small merchant. Instead of helping the "little" man, you are adding extra burdens. I think that every merchant and every family should fight such a move.

The Chamber of Commerce leaders should think twice and three times if necessary before adding such a tax.

Virginian's Prophecy About Federal Income Tax Seems to be True

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY

(Copyright, 1958)

Our problem that must be solved sooner or later is the relationship between federal and state taxation. The federal government takes so large a share, what with income and payroll taxes and excises that state and municipal governments find themselves hamstrung. Local taxpayers realize that the load is getting too heavy and no politician desires to add the straw that will break the camel's back.

Sokolsky

When one realizes, for instance, that in 1957 the federal government took out of New York state $15,000,000,000 and put back into the state, $289,000,000, it is truly a frightening situation. The reason, for instance, that so many educators want federal aid for education, which ultimately will mean control of education, is the federal taxes being so high, the states and municipalities are running short of money for this and all other services.

Virginia Did Not Ratify
Way back in 1910, Sen. Harry F. Byrd's father, Richard E. Byrd, speaker of the House of Delegates of Virginia, opposed the income tax and the state of Virginia did not ratify the 16th amendment. Speaker Byrd, with rare prophetic vision, foresaw what this tax would do and what he then said has come to happen. He said:

"If (the 16th amendment) means that the state must give up a legitimate and long established source of revenue and yield it to the federal government, it means that the state actually invites the federal government to invade its territory, to oust its jurisdiction and to establish federal dominion within the innermost citadel of reserved rights of the commonwealth."

"This amendment will do what even the 14th and 15th amendments did not do — it will extend the federal power so as to reach the citizen in the ordinary business of life. A hand from Washington will be stretched out and placed upon every man's business; the eye of a federal inspector will be in every man's counting house."

"The law will of necessity have inquisitorial features, it will provide penalties, it will create a complicated machinery."

"Under it businessmen will be hauled into courts distant from their homes."

Heavy fines imposed by distant and unfamiliar tribunals will constantly menace the taxpayer."

"An army of federal inspectors, spies and detectives will descend upon the state. They will compel men of business to show their books and disclose the secrets of their affairs. They will dictate forms of bookkeeping. They will require statements and affidavits. On the one hand the inspector can blackmail the taxpayer and on the other, he can profit by selling his secret to his competitor."

"When the federal government gets a strangle hold on the individual businessman, state lines will exist nowhere but on the maps. Its agents will everywhere supervise the commercial life of the states — I am not willing by any voluntary act to give up revenue which the state of Virginia herself needs, nor to surrender that measure of states' rights."

To this, one only needs to add a few sentences of the Declaration of Independence, written by another and earlier Virginian, Thomas Jefferson:

"He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and to eat out their substance."

It is surprising that the meeting of governors each year does not forcibly demand that the congress call a convention of states to deal with this problem before it is too late, for if we reach the point of no return, state and municipal governments will not be able to tax at all and all our local institutions will be controlled by swarms of wasteful and bossy officeholders, out of Washington, who will rule over us as though they were our masters, just as we saw them in the horrible O. P. A. days when we were told what to do with things we bought and paid for.

We shall cry out more and more loudly against this plague of double taxation as the recession continues, for we must ask ourselves where the money is to come from. Not only are federal taxes high but they are insolently collected, and as the Internal Revenue Service grows more honest and efficient, we realize what a monster we have created against ourselves.

A meeting of the Outagamie Pioneer society was held in Appleton at Council hall last Saturday, Feb. 22.

All officers were reelected: L. E. Darling, president; Daniel Huntley, vice president; Elihu Spencer, secretary; John Leith, treasurer.

About 70 persons sat down to the bountiful dinner prepared by the ladies in true pioneer style.

President Darling then delivered the annual address which was a happy effort well received. The several towns were then called in regular order, many of which were represented by one or more of the early settlers.

Great Opportunities In Government, Politics

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The observer of public affairs at close range is sometimes moved to wonder why government and politics do not have more allure for young men and women, remembering the opportunities for swift rise to power and place.

Wyngaard

Two examples come to mind.

The other day Gov. Thomson elevated to the top rank of his executive office secretariat a young man named Philip Sellinger, who started his political career as chauffeur, handy man and messenger during the governor's first campaign for the governorship less than two years ago.

From now on state institutions heads, state senators, congressmen, newspaper editors and other persons of consequence will be deferring to Sellinger, as the office manager of the governor's establishment, and the man who knows best the mind and the purposes of the chief officer of the state administration and titular leader of the majority political party. At about the same time Jack Harned, a young and promising apprentice newsman in Madison, accepted an offer to join the staff of Sen. William Proxmire in Washington. Working in the heart of the American political system, in the immediate company of a United States senator, was far more exciting and challenging employment than rewriting squibs for a Madison newspaper, he concluded.

THE OPPORTUNITIES

In both cases these youngsters are going to have a greater role in the history of their times than they would have as glove salesmen or as juniors in a city room. And yet they are comparatively unusual. Relatively few men of their promise and energies have the appetite for political careers.

They can look to their own employers' experiences as vindication of their gambles, if gambles they are.

Vernon Thomson could have worked his life out as a country lawyer, as have thousands of lawyers before him, without leaving much impression upon his times.

But because he chose politics as a sideline, as mayor, legislator, legislative speaker, state attorney general, he surely gravitated to the governorship where he has a vast power for good or evil. Sen. Proxmire could have spent his life printing catalogs in Waterloo, and there wouldn't have been much in the record to show at the end of his life. He now sits in a chamber which has been graced by some of the most powerful figures in American life. He sits there only because he had a liking for political life. He won one of the highest offices in the world, as did Thomson, with strikingly less competition than he could rightfully have expected as a small town printer, or as a small town lawyer.

MEMORY

A long time ago an imaginative governor, strong leader of his party in his day, lectured me at length one evening in a dreary hotel room in a tiny upper Wisconsin hostelry while he was on the campaign trail.

The new opportunity frontier for the ambitious and able young man, he said, will be government and politics. Half a century earlier the young man of ambition inevitably headed for business, or possibly finance. But a new era had started, he related more than 20 years ago.

Who will quarrel with the accuracy of his forecast?

American government today has more power over the lives of men than ever before in the history of the country. Government now takes a quarter of the national income. Men rise swiftly to the highest rank and greatest power in political affairs who would require a life-time to acquire comparable rank and success in business and industry.

Yet there is a curious lack of recruits. Many men are rising to high places not because they are the best available, or even reasonably qualified, but because of the default of competition. Only a handful here and there recognize the opportunities, the excitement and the ease of admission to the ruling class in a time when Americans are evidently destined for ever more governmental services.

Australian Teachers Want Decimal Coinage

Perth, Australia — Speakers at the Australian Teachers' federation here condemned Australia's currency system.

They supported a motion to introduce a system of decimal coinage in place of the present 12 pennies to a shilling and 20 shillings to a pound.

The conference recommended that: The present 10 shillings be made a dollar. The shilling be one-tenth of a dollar. The penny be one-tenth of a shilling.

Knowland Sets Sights on '64 Of '68 Election

Gives Conditional Endorsement of Nixon in 1960

Washington — Sen. William Knowland of California has set his sights on the 1964 or possibly 1968 — Republican presidential nomination.

Knowland, the senate Republican leader who is running this year for governor of California, practically took himself out of the 1960 presidential contest with a conditional endorsement yesterday of Vice President Nixon.

"If I am elected governor of California I expect to serve out my term," Knowland said in an interview. "I think Dick Nixon is likely to be the presidential nominee and I would support him."

Knowland made it clear, however, he is not foreclosing the possibility that he himself would become a candidate for the 1960 nomination if anything should happen to eliminate Nixon from the race.

The Republican leader said he had no intention of "Shermanizing" himself to the extent of saying he would not accept the nomination or would not serve if elected. He referred to the statement made after the Civil war by Gen. William T. Sherman.

Knowland said he has no present intention of entering any presidential primaries 1960. Nixon is expected to enter that year's primaries and there has been speculation that he might be embarrassed by having another Californian as one of his opponents.

Knowland's decision to wait it out beyond 1960 apparently is based on the belief that Nixon now is far ahead in the contest for the nomination, that 1960 might not be a good year for the Republicans and that he is young enough at 49 to bide his time until 1964 or even 1968.

The Knowland strategy apparently takes into account the possibility that Nixon might be nominated and defeated in 1960 and thus open up the field for Knowland in 1964. If Nixon were elected in 1960 and again in 1964, Knowland still would be available in 1968 if he continued to hold the California governorship.

Pegler Argues for Free Gas Industry

Says It Is Only Fuel to Have Price Regulated by Government

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York — The natural gas industry is now sixth among the industries of the United States. It is parallel to the petroleum industry and largely inseparable. Natural gas prices are "regulated" from the well (most of them are in Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico) through the pipeline, and city gas mains right into the household furnaces of 14 million homes and the burners on the stoves of 30 million homes. It is the cheapest of all fuels. It is paid for only after it has been consumed and the supplier pays for the storage. Customers using oil or coal must buy their supplies in advance of use and provide tanks or bins on their property.

Natural gas is the only fuel which is "regulated" by the federal government. This regulation is operated through a law called the natural gas act of 1938 which has been amended, literally and actually by the supreme court in a series of typical socialistic decisions. Price regulation was specifically omitted. The supreme court decreed price regulation.

Lost Markets

The coal industry has lost markets to natural gas and oil at a dramatic rate. "Coal" as an industry and as a labor-organization under John L. Lewis, has joined in the political propaganda to curtail production and use of natural gas and the development of new gas-fields through "regulation" and restriction of the gas industry's profits. The federal power commission is the authority which controls this new source of "energy." However, gas is not power.

Like coal, oil and stove wood which are not "regulated" by the power commission, gas creates heat when it is burned. Heat makes steam. Steam is energy of itself and steam, by turning engines, creates electric energy. But gas itself is no more energetic than coal, oil, wood, or buffalo chips, the last of a waggish, homely Texas figure of comparison constantly used in debates on a proposed amendment to the natural gas act. The purpose of the amendment is to revoke the supreme court's price controls and permit the gas producers and distributors, who own pipe lines, to make profits subject to no more federal restraint of limitation than oil and coal. The gas industry holds that coal is shortsighted and fatalistic in whooping up federal control of gas prices and profits. It warns coal that coal will be controlled when John Lewis dies.

Costs Rising

Tom Pickett, of the National Coal association, which has headquarters in Washington, frankly admitted in a speech to the Independent Petroleum association in Dallas last October that coal has lost a significant proportion of its share of the total energy market, particularly to natural gas. Coal was going to defend its interests against this new competitor. He said the costs of producing gas and oil were rising whereas the cost in coal has not risen in 10 years. (John L. Lewis gets a take-off of 20 cents on every ton of coal mined under his union authority, an aggregate of ten billions to date. The miners, who thought this was a pension welfare fund in which they had a vested right have learned with dismay from the federal court that Lewis has absolute right to give or deny all such "benefits" according to his own, personal "charity.")

Pickett is a Texan who resigned from congress to take his job with Coal. The industry works in close cooperation with the United Mine Workers. Pickett frankly admitted in this speech that "coal is relegated to the role of a stand-by fuel." By means of "marketing practices," the gas industry was raising industrial steam "in coal's traditional markets." So Coal would oppose the amendment to the gas act.

Stand-By Use

Gas now provides about one fourth of the "energy" used by the entire country, twice the volume of 1955. Many industrial users, meaning in a word, "factories" maintain stand-by apparatus and oil or coal supplies. They can readily switch over when office buildings, large stores and millions of homes impose sudden drains on the natural gas supply in cold weather. When these brief emergencies pass, the substitutes again stand by. Gas resumes its flow to the burners.

The recent uproars against efforts of the gas industry to raise money for their political problems reveal a pathetic shyness of Republicans who profess to believe in free enterprise and the free right to petition congress and persuade public opinion. A Texas Republican who honestly if not factually, proclaimed the need to elect congressmen friendly to the gas industry was treated as though he had been caught desecrating Roosevelt's grave — and Lenin's tomb.

Certainly there was nothing clandestine in his appeal for $100 a plate for a dinner for Joe Martin, the house minority leader. But the Republican national committee and Ike stampeded. The belittled attack of righteous editorial matter signified corruption in journalism rather than in the gas industry. It implied that the author of the appeal should have lied about his purpose and thus tacitly admitted that there was something indecent about the gas industry. His honesty probably will defeat the industry's hope of enacting a law to liberate natural gas from controls which thus far have not even been suggested for oil and coal.

Flat Paws in London

More Trained Police Dogs Added to Force

BY EDDY GILMORE

London — P— Britain's force of flat paws — its growing department of trained police dogs — has become a permanent effective part of law enforcement.

"The mere appearance of a police dog in a tough district, said a metropolitan police force spokesman, has a salutary effect."

In plain language he meant the toughies are afraid of the doggies.

The nation's police departments started using trained dogs in 1938 when two Labradors were assigned to one London suburban division.

The war came. For some reason lost in the whirl of history, out went the dogs. Unofficially it was reported that one of the dogs bit a cop.

In 1945 Police Commissioner Sir Harold Scott started using them again. He had been impressed by results in West Germany and Holland.

Once more Labradors were recruited and again they were employed in the suburbs and not in city areas.

Snarl — But Not Traffic

Gradually, the Alsatian was introduced and the police moved them into some of London's tougher areas.

One night a crowd of rowdies gathered on a sidewalk in Whitechapel and refused to move. They began to obstruct traffic.

Rimpy, a tough Alsatian was introduced to them. He put them to flight. Traffic flowed normally within five minutes.

Word got around to other districts. More dogs were trained and put to work.

Then came the great Rex. He had been a watch dog at the French embassy but when the ambassador installed a set of burglar alarms Rex was through on the diplomatic beat.

The police took him and he proved to be the greatest flat paw hero on the force.

He had 120 arrests to his credit. He was praised by magistrates. He was even presented to the late King George VI.

Detects Dope

He was so clever that he was the first police dog trained in London to detect dope. He was also the first canine to win a medal.

When Rex died in 1956 his police handler, Constable Arthur Holman, said with tears in his eyes:

Ours was no ordinary master and pet relationship. When he died something vital went out of me.

Holman retired in a few months.

In 1956, London flat paws arrested 1,168 humans.

Last October, the metropolitan police force issued a call for 100 more Alsatis. The commissioner, Sir John Knott-Bower, said he wanted to boost the police dog strength to 300 to patrol London's 750 square miles.

A number of Londoners donated their dogs to the force.

The police have established a training school at West Wickham. Here the doggy recruits are trained in tracking, following a scent, obedience and making an arrest.

The first thing taught is how to make an arrest, said a spokesman. "The dog is taught to seize the offender's right coat sleeve and hang on until the handler arrives to make the arrest."

Some dogs do the arresting.

An Alsatian named Dag once charged into a gang of Teddy Boys, London's equivalent of America's onetime zoot suiters, halted them from breaking into a movie house and raced around them until his handler arrived.

Two Rockets Fired As Part of IGY Tests

Fort Churchill, Manitoba — P— Canadian-American teams fired two rockets into the ionosphere early today in international geophysical year tests.

An Aerobee rocket sponsored by the naval research laboratory of Washington D.C., soared up 128 miles. Thirty-five minutes later a Nike Caron solid fuel rocket sponsored by the U.S. Air Force Cambridge Research Center and the University of Michigan rose 91 miles.

The tests, described as successful, gathered data on atmospheric pressure, temperature, air density and winds at high altitudes.

Detroit Police Try To Solve Mystery of 3 Thieves in Manhole

Detroit — P— Police today were trying to unravel the mystery of the three thieves, one of whom may have died when he cut into a charged 24,000-volt electric cable.

Piced together by curious witnesses who watched the operation and the Detroit Edison Co., police got this story:

Three men pulled up in a red truck, lowered themselves into a manhole and cut off 15 feet of a spare copper cable which when used carried 2,300 volts of electricity. After helping load the cable, valued at about $100 into the truck, one man went back into the hole.

Suddenly there was a blinding flash. The other two men went into the hole and carried out the limp form of the third man. They hurriedly drove off. The remains of a hacksaw were found unembedded in the 24,000-volt cable.

No one has showed up at hospitals for treatment for electric shock, and the cable snatchers haven't been found.

The company said that earlier reports that power had been shut off in the 24,000 volt cable because of trouble were erroneous.

Broken Ankle

Mrs. Melda Anderson, 392 River drive, was taken to Appleton Memorial hospital by Larry's ambulance about 8:30 this morning after she fell and broke her right ankle in front of the Outagamie county court house. Mrs. Anderson is secretary to Dist. Atty. George Greisch.

CIO Proposes Program to Halt Unemployment

Want Bigger Tax Exemptions, More Public Construction

Milwaukee — P— A state CIO conference on employment Sunday proposed a program of bigger tax exemptions, larger unemployment checks and more public construction to combat current unemployment.

Charles Schultz, president of the Wisconsin CIO, said "This is our program, and it will make good reading in the press. But unless we ourselves work to implement it, we will be guilty of holding out a false hope to the people we represent."

Schultz addressed about 300 union delegates attending the conference. Gov. Thomson had declined an invitation to attend the conference.

"What we must do," said Schultz, "is buttonhole our congressmen and senators, buttonhole our state senators and assemblymen back home and tell them these are the things that must be done."

Among the conference's recommendations were:

A special session of the Wisconsin legislature to liberalize unemployment compensation of not less than 39 weeks.

Adoption of a $200 increase in the personal exemptions for income taxes and launch a fast federal income taxes to provide "an immediate surge of buying power of approximately $5 billion."

Hurt in Fall

Mrs. Clara Kringle, 6244 W. Franklin street, was hurt about noon Saturday when she fell in front of the J. Fountain Lumber company, 129 N. State street. She was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital. Injuries were reported not serious.

works program to provide jobs where they are needed, at union wage standards "to build schools, hospitals, roads, sewers and airports."

Congressional adoption of the McCarthy-Kennedy bill to increase unemployment benefits in every state to a minimum of $55 per week with a maximum of not less than 39 weeks.

Adoption of a $200 increase in the personal exemptions for income taxes and launch a fast federal income taxes to provide "an immediate surge of buying power of approximately $5 billion."

Plan Vote On District 4 Bond Issue

Grand Chute School District 4 electors will meet at 8 o'clock Thursday night to vote on a proposed $80,000 bond issue to construct an addition to Woodlawn school, according to Donald A. Greer, district clerk.

The bonds would be issued to build four new classrooms, a lavatory maintenance room, ventilation system and an additional boiler.

Increased enrollments made the proposal necessary, Greer said.

Now attending Woodlawn are students from former non-operating District 10, attached to District 4 by the Outagamie county school committee last November.

North Central Plans Purchase Of New Planes

Firm Negotiating For $7.5 Million To Buy 5 Convairs

North Central Airlines is negotiating (negotiating to cover purchases of five Convair 440 Liners to cost $7.5 million according to Frank H. Buttomer, vice president.

He said the Chicago-based local service carrier is seeking a combination of equipment mortgage, common stock and either convertible preferred stock or convertible debenture financing. The company has a "very good chance" of arranging the financing and receiving the aircraft during 1958, he said.

Carrying about 50 passengers compared with 26 on DC-3s the line now uses the Convairs would be used between Duluth and Chicago and on the Chicago-Detroit run.

Profits for 1957 were "a little better" than the $34,176 earned in 1956. Buttomer said Revenue passenger miles in January topped the year-ago level by about 25%, he said, while the number of passengers carried rose by 27% to 57,350.

North Central, which serves 53 cities in nine mid-western states over a 3,471-mile system, probably will order more Convair aircraft if pending proposals to serve 24 more cities are approved.

Fieldmen Will Talk at Valley Breeders Meeting

Three fieldmen will address a meeting of the Fox Valley Holstein Breeders' association in Appleton March 1, according to John Powers, Outagamie county agent.

The speakers are Charles Brace and Art Sontag, state fieldmen, and Jack Stanchfield, Fox Valley fieldman.

J. Fred Magnus, Madison, original organizer of the association will be honored.

The program begins at noon at the American Legion club.

Police Investigate Hit, Run Accident

Donald Moosbrugger, 219 N. Rankin street, told police Saturday night that his car was struck in the side by another car at E. Wisconsin avenue and N. Rankin street. Moosbrugger said the car was making a u-turn at the time of the accident.

Moosbrugger gave police the license number of the other car after the driver drove away without stopping.

The license number was traced to Ronald F. Pack, 821 Roosevelt street, Menasha who told police he was working at a cab firm at the time of the accident. Pack told police he found his car parked in a different position and the gas tank level lower when he finished working. He said he thought his car had been stolen.

Menasha and Appleton police are investigating the case.

Kinsey Workers Issue Another Case Report

Latest Information Based on Findings of Research Institute

New York — One in 10 American women becomes pregnant before marriage, the Kinsey institute reported today. Of those pregnancies, which do not lead to quick marriages, 89 per cent end in abortion, the institute said, 6 per cent produce illegitimate children and 5 per cent end in miscarriage. A copyrighted article in the current issue of a national magazine is based on the report, the first issued by the Institute for Sex Research at Indiana university since the death of the institute's founder, Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey, in 1956.

The report titled "Pregnancy Birth and Abortion," also said.

Among all women of child-bearing age now alive one in seven has had or will have a pre-marriage abortion. Most unmarried women who undergo abortions continue sexual relations afterward. Only 3 per cent stop.

Comparatively Rare "Shotgun weddings" are comparatively rare. Only 19 per cent of single women who become pregnant marry during their pregnancies. Half these marriages eventually break up. The more devoutly religious a woman is the less likely she is to become pregnant before marriage.

Of women who marry after reaching 30 years of age, 31 per cent having premarital sexual relations become pregnant, and 30 per cent have abortions.

The statistics are derived from the group of nearly 8,000 women interviewed for the institute's 1953 report "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female." After eliminating certain women what remained was a sample of 5,293.

"Pregnancy before marriage is not just a rare problem, not just a mischance which affects an occasional ignorant farm girl—but a widespread social problem," the new report said.

Many Factors What kind of women are most likely to have sexual relations before marriage and become pregnant? It depends on many factors, according to the article, varying from "a chance fragrance in the summer air" to "a woman's own sexual appetite."

The report said that of women who became pregnant before marriage most are married and "presumably are as happy as any other wives."

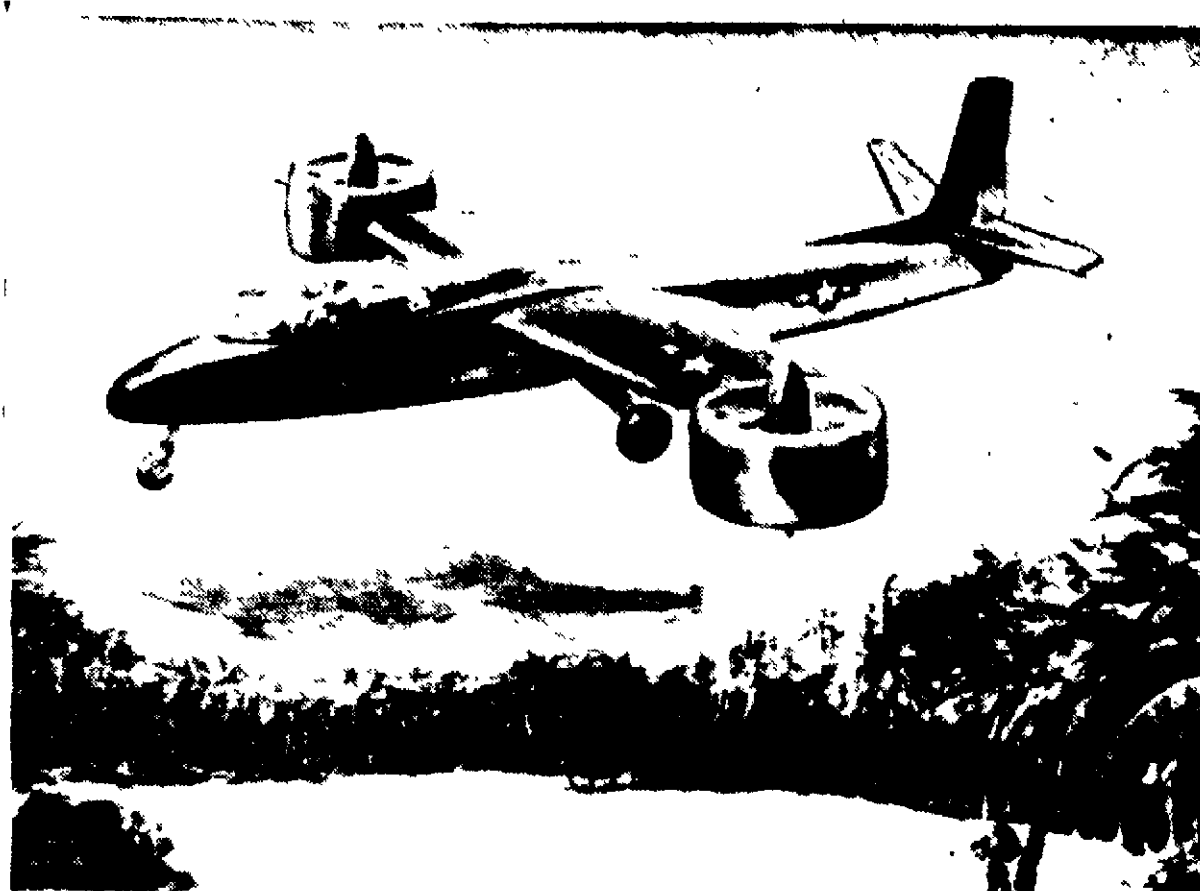

In fact, more women with premarital sex relations married than those who never had any premarital sexual relations.

The report indicated that abortions were performed by physicians, persons who had attended medical school for a brief time, and some who had picked up a smattering of medical knowledge.

Commenting on its findings, the institute said:

"To keep one's self and/or one's suitors at a high pitch of emotional and sexual excitement for five to ten years from the beginning of dating to marriage, and meanwhile abstain from sexual relations is, biologically speaking, a most unnatural as well as difficult task."

white collar workers, conservatives and much of the upper class.

The government barred the candidacies of its own military members. Aramburu insisted control must be turned back to civilians.

Elected vice president with Frondizi was Alejandro Gomez, a school teacher and lawyer from Rosario, in Santa Fe Province. Both are 49 years old.

The interior ministry's vote count also showed Frondizi's party was leading in congressional races over the country. The senate is chosen by provincial legislatures.

The electoral college meets March 17 to elect Frondizi president formally. The new members of the federal house and senate meet March 31, and Frondizi will be sworn in May 1.

Police reported only one outbreak of violence on election night. A group of Frondizi's celebrating backers clashed with Balgin supporters in downtown Buenos Aires. Two men went to the hospital with gunshot wounds.

Blow to Aramburu Balbin's defeat was a blow to President Pedro Aramburu's provisional government, the military regime which came to power after Peron was kicked out in 1955. The government maintained official neutrality in the election, but its sentiments and tacit support were with Balgin. His people's party was the choice of many

Moscow — Nikita Khrushchev says Russia's troops are being armed with "the most terrifying weapons of all time" but "all we want is peace."

The Soviet communist party boss told a Kremlin reception observing the 40th anniversary of the Soviet army last night that Russia's main aim was to "live without fear and in friendship."

Defense Minister Rodion Malinovsky told the gathering that Russia's armed forces are equipped with the "most modern military techniques." He praised commanders who rose from the ranks and said 86 per cent of the army's leaders are members of the communist party or the young communist league.

Snake Venom Thief Told to Return Goods

Miami, Fla. — Miami's snake venom thief has 24 hours to return the goods or face the risk of prosecution.

That was the warning published in the Miami Herald today after $5,750 worth of poisonous venom disappeared from the Miami serpentarium Friday.

The thief called the snake farm Saturday and said he wanted the venom to protect himself against snakebite. But he hung up before he could be warned the venom in its present state is useless as an antidote but could kill up to 600 persons.

Britain to Get Thor Missiles

The key paragraph on who said will press the trigger said: "The decision to launch these missiles will be a matter for joint decision by the two governments. Ike's Luck Seems to Be on Downward Turn

U. S. May Be Entering 2-Year Period of Government by Authority-Less President

Washington — President Eisenhower's lucky star has been a factor in the American political scene for a good many years now. If you consider the political scene from which the president escaped to Georgia, you can hardly blame him for wishing to escape. Just before he left, record unemployment figures were announced. When he made an optimistic statement about a coming economic upturn, the nation yawned skeptically, and the stock market fell.

Bad Luck Begins

Since he left, a little-known Democrat has come within a tiny margin of taking a Minnesota congressional seat (though the president's extraordinarily heavily Republican personal life is within living memory. The main issue was the recession, and the Eisenhower farm policy, and a congressional inquiry has suggested that the president has been far less behavior of some of the Eisenhower - appointed members of the federal regulatory agencies has been somewhat less clean than a hound's tooth.

The president's bad time began early last year, when his Georgia host, former Treasury Secretary George Humphrey, attacked the administration's budget, and the president failed to respond vigorously. That episode sparked the famous budget revolt, which disastrously eroded the president's authority in Capitol hill.

Since then, everything has gone wrong for the president. Little Rock, to which the president reacted too much and too late, the sputniks, which challenged the myth of his infallibility in defense matters, and now, worst of all, the threat of a serious recession.

The president has had, quite literally, the most favorable press of any president in American history, not excepting George Washington. His admiration press has been a major factor in the presidential aura (though the president's extraordinarily heavily Republican personal life is within living memory. The main issue was the recession, and the Eisenhower farm policy, and a congressional inquiry has suggested that the president has been far less immune to press criticism than in the past.

Add that the Democrats (while many Republicans privately agree) are predicting a landslide of 1958 proportions in November. Add all the evidence of a mounting Republican revolt in congress against the president's policies. A real and present danger then becomes apparent.

It is the danger of a 1-year period of headlessness, a period when a lame duck president, his aura lost, his authority disregarded, his leadership challenged, will serve out his time in isolation and frustration.

Perhaps the danger is not real and present after all. It will not become a reality if the responsible congressional leaders can help it. Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, for example, is fully aware congressional government simply cannot be made to work in these times. And all sorts of things, an economic upturn, for example, or above all a firm reassertion by the president of his leadership at home and abroad, could transform the situation.

But one cannot help wonder if the president does not sometimes regret his decision to run again; if he does not sometimes think longingly of the happy, untroubled days he might now be living at Gettysburg, loved and respected more even than Jefferson at Monticello or Washington at Mount Vernon.

Talent Lamp Ignored 'Aladdin' Not Work Of Inspired Genie

BY JINGO
"Aladdin," CBS-TV "Show of the Month," was not the work of inspired genie, Charles Mercer, A P columnist, says.
"Better than in any programs visible on the home screens, the Arabian nights story presented Friday evening neverthe-less was not as good as every-one had been led to expect," says Mercer.
Jingo

S. J. Perelman, who wrote the book, and Cole Porter, who wrote the music, simply didn't rub the lamp of their talents hard enough to suit Mercer.
For those who know not, the centuries old fairy tale concerns a poor Chinese boy named Aladdin who comes into possession of a magic lamp, with which he makes very good, indeed.
Perelman should have been able to draw out Mickey a little humor and fa hion a lit-Shaughness for his new TV se-

To Your Good Health Molner Commends Sensible Attitude on Plaguing Ailment

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.
"Dear Mr. Molner: First, I want to say I enjoy your articles. It seems to me you present things so a layman can understand."
"Second, I most heartily commend you on your stand in favor of a good family doctor. My family is blessed with one, and we have been his patients since he first hung out his shingle 20 years ago. I thank God for him."
"Third, some time ago when you answered a reader as to why she still has flare-ups after two years of urinary trouble, I know just how she feels, for I have had the same condition."
"The lid has been kept on so far with one of the sulfa drugs, but I am one of those people who can be harboring a serious illness and still be on my feet, exhibiting only the vaguest of symptoms, unless it is ready to explode wide open."
"Suffice it to say that while in some cases surgery is indicated, in my case it is not. My doctor has consulted with the best specialists in the city, and I have been doing very well, a 'complete cure' so we can say with all my heart that weak points, we are often de-splained by our own particular my own doctor's inspiration and kindness are helping me to live with my 'infirmity.'"

Man Books Self on Drunkenness Charge
Huntington, W. Va. — Police Sgt. Lee Swing, on a rush assignment, observed a famil-iar figure in a familiar condition near the court house.
Not having time to stop, the sergeant found, as he ex-pected that "Allen" had charged himself with being drunk and was sleeping it off.
"Go on and register in, Al-len."
Returning some time later, "em right," said Swing.

Things That Plague Us
Most of us, by the time we achieve the age of good sense, have something or other that we have to watch and "baby along" and we do nicely as long as we don't insist on being 16 years old again and able to take idiotic chances with our health. Arthritis, weak arches, spinal curves, nervous stomachs, headaches—oh, 350 other things can plague us but if we learn to control them we get along pret-ty well. If we insist on finding a "complete cure" so we can ignore our own particular weak points, we are often de-splained by our own particular my own doctor's inspiration and kindness are helping me to live with my 'infirmity.'"

Art Collection Of Millionaire To Be Displayed

Philanthropist Gave
Millions of Dollars
To Cleveland Museum

Cleveland — When a multimillionaire collects modern art, what does he choose?

The public will get one man's answer when the Cleveland Museum of Art re-opens March 4 after a $9 million expansion program.

For the personal collection of the late Leonard C. Hanna, Jr., will go on exhibition for the first time. The museum disclosed its nature today.

The philanthropist bequeathed about $20 million, the lion's share of his fortune, to the museum, besides paying more than four million toward the construction of a new wing.

Bequeathing his personal collection, worth about a million and a half, was his third way of contributing art to the institution.

Since 1942 the Hanna Fund has bought for the museum a great variety—a splashy Untereit, a Rembrandt portrait, a Greek marble, an important El Greco crucifixion, a Chinese landscape, a selection of moderns—totaling hundreds of items.

Personal Gifts
And his personal gifts during his lifetime have included old master prints and a huge collection of George Bellows lithographs and drawings.

But these 35 oils and a few other items were things that he lived with. They hung in his New York apartment, but they were chosen to fit eventually into the museum's modern collections.

Nearly all of them are of the French school, mostly the impressionists. They do not go much into the abstractions; there is a Mondrian, but it is a conservative picture of a chrysanthemum, dated 1906, before geometry engrossed him.

A late (about 1890) Renoir, in bright, swimming colors, "The Apple Seller," is one of the major items.

There are a Cezanne drawing and two Cezanne landscapes in oil, the latter including an important work on one of the painter's favorite subjects, "La Montagne Sainte-Victoire."

Rare Water Color
A rare early water color of Van Gogh's Dutch period and one of his wavy-lined landscapes showing poplars on a hill (1889) are overshadowed by a portrait that will catch many an eye. It is "Mademoiselle Ravoux," from 1890, the final year of Van Gogh's life.

Manet's "Portrait of Berthe Morisot," a brown and black study of a woman painter who was his sister-in-law, is accompanied by one of her portraits, "Woman in Profile."

Degas is represented by four canvases: "Race Horses," "Dancers in Pink" and two portraits. The racing scene at Longchamps is typical Degas, the ballet dancers are given in this version a soft, misty pink glow.

HOW TO RELIEVE YOUR TENSIONS AND BE HAPPIER

If anxieties and tensions are depriving you of the full pleasure of life, it's time for you to take stock of your present state of mind. There's no need to be frightened, since many people today suffer a little mental tension. But a little tension can often lead to more tension, and so on. That's why you should follow these suggestions:

- 1. TALK IT OUT! Confide your worries in some level-headed person you trust. You'll be amazed how different your problems look after you've talked them out.
- 2. ESCAPE FOR A WHILE! When things go wrong, sometimes it's best to lose yourself for a while, in a movie or a book. When you face your worries again, you may find them a lot easier to solve.
- 3. WORK OFF YOUR ANGER! "Blowing up" can't possibly answer your problem. When you reach your boiling point, work off your anger in a sport, or some project around the house.

These are just three of the many easy-to-follow suggestions which psychiatric experts have developed to help you get rid of your tensions and live a happier life. To find out more, write for the free booklet "How To Deal With Your Tensions", Address: Better Mental Health, Box 2500, New York 1, New York.

Art Lecture Slated At College Center

An illustrated lecture on "A Sixteenth Century Wooden Figure of the Virgin" from the collection of the Neenah museum will be presented by Lawrence D. Steffel of the Lawrence college art department at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the Worcester art center. The lecture is given under the auspices of the City of Neenah Municipal Museum foundation.

This is the third occasion in the past year that art objects from the Neenah collection have been displayed in the Worcester art center. Already seen have been a portion of the collection of glass paper weights owned by the late Mrs. John Bergstrom, and a group of German and Bavarian antique glass objects given to the foundation by Ernst Mahler. The carved Madonna and Child, which has been on view since Christmas, also is a gift of Mr. Mahler. The polychromed object has been authenticated by the Austrian government, which does not allow antiques to leave the country unless they have been authenticated by a commission of historic monuments.

Steffel, who teaches medieval art at Lawrence, graduated from Haverford college in Pennsylvania, and in 1955 earned a master of fine arts degree in art and archaeology from the Princeton university. He now is at work on his doctor's thesis. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and teaches freshman charge studies at the college as well as art courses.

Activities of the City of Neenah Municipal Museum Foundation have been heightened in recent weeks, since the residence of the late Mrs. John Bergstrom has come into municipal ownership as the home for the projected museum.

Museum Founders Founding members of the museum were the late Mrs. Bergstrom, Mrs. C. B. Clark, Ernst Mahler, J. Russell Ward and the mayor of Neenah. Elected members are Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Shattuck, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kimberley, Mrs. Mahler, Miss Helen F. Babcock, Miss T. Elizabeth Babcock, and Mrs. H. K. Babcock. Present officers are Mr. Mahler, president; and Mr. Ward, secretary-treasurer. Prof. Charles M. Brooks, Jr., head of the Lawrence art department, has been designated as executive director of the foundation. The lecture is open to the public without admission

All Children Barred From Wedding

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: In making up the wedding list, I included the names of my three nieces of whom I am very fond. They are 9, 11 and 13 and very well-mannered. When my son gave the list to his fiancée's mother, she told him that she did not want any children at the wedding. So, in order to avoid any unpleasantness he removed their names from the list. I was furious when my son told me this and feel that even though they are giving the wedding, the bridegroom's family should certainly be permitted to invite whom they please. I would very much appreciate your opinion on this matter.

Answer: It does seem automatic to bar your nieces but it may be that in the bride's family there are many children, not well-mannered, who would have to be invited if your nieces were.

Seating Mothers

Dear Mrs. Post: I have invited both my mother and my husband's mother, along with several other members of the family, to dinner. I would like to know where the two mothers should be seated. Should his mother or my mother be seated at my husband's right?

Answer: If you want to be formally correct, your husband should seat your mother on his right and his own mother on his left.

Leontyne Price, American Soprano, 4th Starring Artist

In America, in Europe, in Asia, Leontyne Price has been hailed for her glorious voice, her searching musicianship and her dynamic acting. In every medium open to the singing artist—in opera, concert and recital, on radio, television and records, and on Broadway—Leontyne Price is a luminous star. The young American soprano will appear here Wednesday, March 5, at the Lawrence Memorial chapel under the auspices of the Lawrence Community Artist series.

Miss Price's magnitude and versatility as an artist are shown by the great variety of important engagements she has been chosen to fill. As Bess in the internationally acclaimed production of Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," she was a sensation in New York, Vienna, Berlin, London and Paris and on tour throughout North America.

Long-Standing Artist
She was especially selected by the composer to play in the Virgil Thomson-Gertrude Stein "Four Saints in Three Acts" on Broadway and in Paris. She has been presented at the Tanglewood festival, New York's Lewisohn stadium, Washington's Rock Creek park, the Ann Arbor festival and, for three consecutive seasons, the Hollywood bowl.

Three times Miss Price has been starred in productions of the NBC-TV Opera theater: in title role of "Tosca," as Pamina in "The Magic Flute," and as a French nun in Poulenc's "Dialogues of the Carmelites." Among the many orchestras with which she has appeared as soloist are the three most distinguished in this country, the New York Philharmonic, the Boston symphony and the Philadelphia orchestra, and she has been re-engaged by all three.

Miss Price made her formal New York recital debut in Town Hall in November, 1954. It was an event that marked the emergence of an already established opera star as a concert artist of equal stature. "Presented by the 'Voice of Fire-goddess performing among us,'" she was a guest on many exclaimed the critic of the New York Herald Tribune. "She is every inch an artist, every bit the true performer... with an enormous capacity for projecting a personality that literally spills charm over the footlights."

Toured India
As an emissary of our State department, she was the first American artist selected to tour India to demonstrate the high caliber of our musical culture. On the airwaves she has been presented by the "Voice of Fire-goddess performing among us," "stone" and as a guest on many popular television shows. More than half a dozen leading contemporary composers have chosen her to introduce their works, both here and abroad. Her stature as an artist continues to grow. During the summer of 1957 she made an extensive tour of Australia. She made her debut with the San Francisco Opera in a leading role in the American premiere of Francis Poulenc's opera mentioned above in the fall of 1957. At the invitation of Director Herbert von Karajan, she will appear with the famed Vienna State opera in May.

The achievements of this exciting young singer are all the more impressive for the fact that she has attained her present high eminence in the space of only a few years while still in her twenties. In the spring of 1952, Miss Price was an unknown music student. Within a year she was an international star. Today her name is a household word wherever great singing is recognized and appreciated.

Married to Warfield
Leontyne Price was born in Laurel, Miss., and received her degree at Central State college, Wilberforce, Ohio, before going to New York's Juilliard school for vocal training. In 1952, an outstanding performance as Mistress Ford in a school production of Verdi's "Falstaff" brought her to the attention of Virgil Thomson, who signed her for his "Four Saints in Three Acts" which started her on her remarkable singing career.

Miss Price is married to the great baritone star William Warfield, who was her leading man in "Porgy and Bess." Warfield, who appeared in Appleton with the Chaminade chorus several years ago, is scheduled to sing with the MacDowell chorus May 3 at Appleton High school auditorium.

Reserved seats for Miss Price's concert are now available at Bellings.

Beauty Health Neglect Robs Good Looks

BY MARIAN MATTHEWS

Neglect and worry about your health can rob you of good looks in time.

With all the improved medical care available today, it always seems senseless waste for a woman to let her health go under par. When fatigue persists, for example, with no good reason you should see your doctor. It may be a sign of illness or simply that your diet needs the supplementary aid of vitamins or minerals.

Though you may feel you are the exception and your "good skin" will never change—real illness can prove you are wrong. Not only does the skin color and texture change in some instances but your hair adds to your general unhappiness by becoming dry and unmanageable. Not to mention the fact that its color can fade more quickly. Generally, it takes a long time to repair such damages.

The old theory that it is better to mend the small damage before it becomes too large should be applied to your health. Stay healthy by taking daily precautions with good foods in a balanced diet; by creating a happy balance between sufficient rest and enough exercise to keep body muscles well toned.

Gaither Says U. S. Security In Great Peril

Atlanta — The original head of the commission which prepared the Gaither report on this nation's defenses says the security of America and the free world is in unprecedented peril.

H. Rowan Gaither, Jr., chairman of the board of trustees of the Ford Foundation, told a meeting of the fellows of the American Bar Foundation Sunday that:

"Our security is in peril not because I believe a total nuclear war is imminent or inevitable but because there are mounting political, economic and social forces, strongly abetted by the threat of nuclear extinction, which can disintegrate the fabric and will of free nations and enslave mankind."

Gaither gained prominence recently as first chairman of a presidential advisory commission which drew up a report on America's defense position. Although the report is still classified as secret much of its contents have leaked out.

Before the report was completed, Gaither, a San Francisco lawyer, became ill. He was replaced by two co-chairmen, William C. Foster, vice president of Olin-Mathieson Chemical corporation, and Robert C. Sprague, of the Sprague Electric company.

The Ford Foundation official said that America, often complacent and over-optimistic, was guilty of self-deception in assuming that our superiority would go unchallenged.

West Berlin Man In Otto John Case To be Questioned

Berlin — Dr. Wolfgang Wohlgenuth, the West Berlin doctor who played a mysterious role in the Otto John case, was flown to West Germany today for questioning and possibly for trial.

John, West Germany's former counterespionage chief, claims that Wohlgenuth drugged him in West Berlin in July 1954 and took him to communist East Germany. John returned to the West in December 1955 and was sentenced to four years in prison for treasonable relations with the communists.

Surprising All but a Few Close friends. Singer Gisele MacKenzie, 31, and her manager Robert Shuttleworth, 44, were married early this morning at a Nevada hotel. Shuttleworth met the singer-actress 12 years ago, helped launch her career and has been her manager since. Gisele MacKenzie Wed to Manager in Nevada Rites

Las Vegas, Nev. — Singer Gisele MacKenzie, 31, and her personal manager, Robert Shuttleworth, 44, were married here early today.

They flew from Hollywood with a small party of friends after midnight.

The ceremony was performed by District Court Judge Frank McNamee in a penthouse suite of the Flamingo hotel.

Miss MacKenzie wore a gown of pale blue satin with gold flecks, a matching hat and gold slippers. Shuttleworth wore a dark blue business suit.

Maurice Kessler, Toronto Canada business man, was best man. Mrs. Axel Stordahl, wife of the orchestra leader, was the bride's attendant. Present were Charles Koren, a vice president of the Music Corp. of America, and Mrs. Koren.

This was the first marriage for Miss MacKenzie. Shuttleworth's previous marriage ended in divorce in 1950.

The couple said they had been considering marriage a long time but definitely decided only last Saturday night.

Shuttleworth has guided Miss MacKenzie's career since its start. While a lieutenant in the Canadian navy, in World war II, he met her at a party and persuaded her to sing.

After the war he organized a dance band and hired Miss MacKenzie as a singer.

Miss MacKenzie was a featured singer on the Hit Parade television show for several years. She has her own program this year.

She was born in Winnipeg, Canada.

North Central Hopes Appleton Will Join Main Line Schedule

Airline President Comments on CAB Hearings at Celebration

Clintonville—Hal Carr, president of North Central Airlines, hopes Appleton will be allowed by the Civil Aeronautics board to become a part of the line's main schedule.

Carr made the statement during the airline's tenth anniversary party at Clintonville. The obstacles, he said, "have been victims of a mixed Sunday night with a short-sighted policy of disallowances on essential expenses incurred under honest, efficient and economical management."

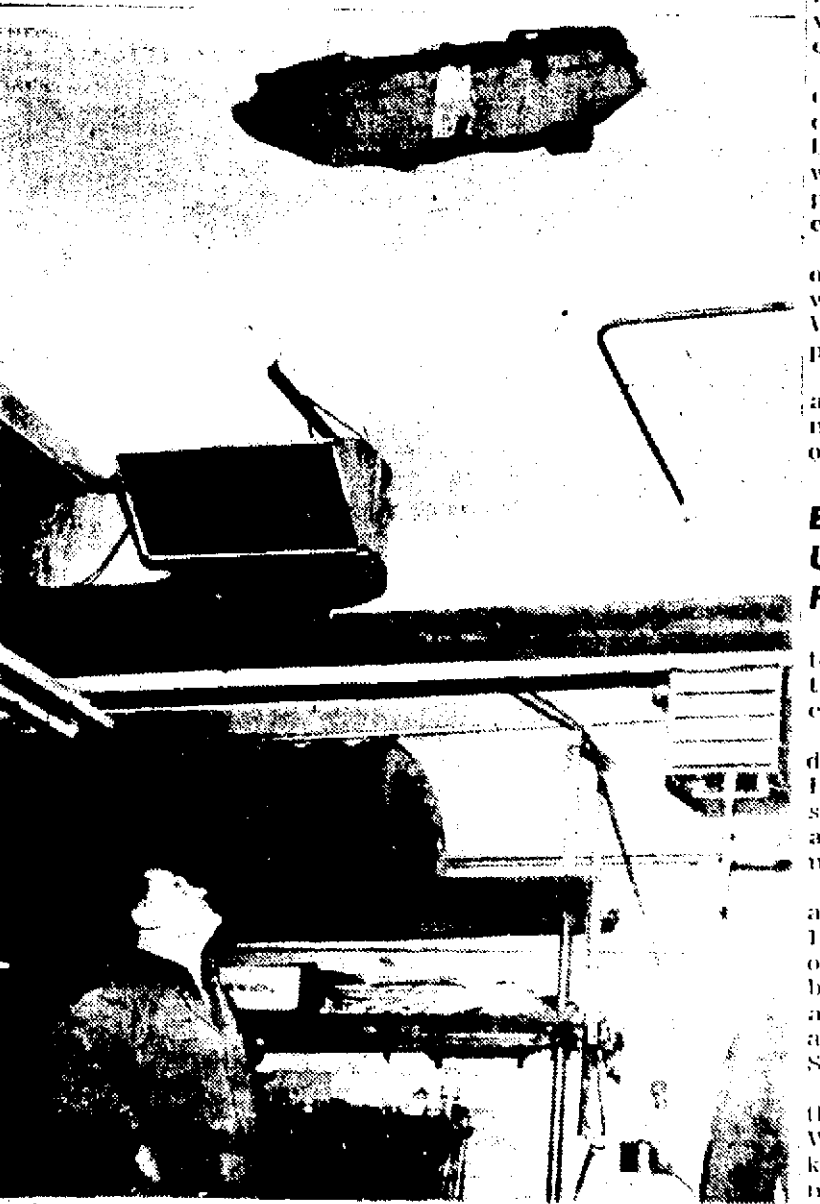

Addressing some 400 guests, Stuart G. Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association, declared a regulatory climate that emphasizes encouragement instead of discouragement and a government policy of consistency instead of contradiction are the keys upon which hinge future development of the nation's local service airlines.

Carr pointed out in a press conference the oral arguments in the seven states area case, and the CAB proceeding in which service to Appleton is being considered, will be held this week.

"We Disagreed" Appleton was recommended by the CAB examiner to be included in the North Central system and we will be guided by the board's decision," Carr said. "But we disagree with the recommendation that Appleton be served, but to the people of the 13 localities through Eau Claire, Marshfield, and Appleton. We urged that the route with the qualification that flights landing at Appleton not be required to land at Oshkosh and Green Bay."

Tipton said local service airlines can achieve in the next decade "a record of progress that will dwarf the accomplishments of the past."

The last 10 years, he declared, have opened new avenues of commerce and stimulated the economy of regions that will be served by the Civil Aeronautics board to become a part of the line's main schedule.

Lady Barber May End 53-Year Career as Fire Destroys Shop

Synco — A fire that destroyed a landmark barber shop, severely damaged an empty house and damaged a garage may have ended the 53-year career of the community's lady barber.

Mrs. Emma Postel, at her daughter's home in Manawa today, was not certain what her plans for the future will be. She has been barbering in Synco since she was 19 years old.

The fire broke out about 4 o'clock Sunday morning. Two trucks from the Manawa department and the town of Union volunteers battled the blaze.

The barber shop, a landmark in the community and Mrs. Postel's shop during her long career, was destroyed. Nothing was saved, Mrs. Lillian Roberts, her daughter, reported.

Flames ignited and severely damaged a house 20 feet away owned until Saturday afternoon by Ervin Fenske. The house was empty. Fenske had sold the property to a New London buyer Saturday afternoon.

About 20 feet away on the other side of the barber shop was a garage owned by Henry Werth. The heat blistered the paint on the siding.

Neighbors turned in the alarm from the community 31 miles north of Manawa. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Burning Cigarettes Left Unattended Blamed For Two Minor Fires

Lighted cigarettes left unattended were blamed today for two minor house fires Sunday, city firemen report.

One which smoldered in a davenport at the William Bruhl home, 1811 S. Adams street, burned the davenport and a rug about 3:12 Sunday morning, firemen said.

The other left in an ash tray at the Paul J. Schlafer home, 1507 N. Morrison street, fell onto a table, then into a waste basket and ultimately damaged a rug, firemen said. The accident occurred about 1:25 Sunday afternoon.

Firemen also were called to the Zoelk's Standard Service, W. College avenue and N. Durkee street, about 9:45 Sunday morning. Station attendants had flushed a solvent into an alley, but the solvent was not dangerous, firemen said.

Thomson Asks Roemer To Talk at National Safety Conference

The midwest conference will be at the Sherman hotel, Chicago, on April 1 and 2, with Thomson and Roemer both scheduled to speak.

Thomson will talk on the needs of the state in the traffic safety field while Roemer will talk exclusively about Appleton's problems and solutions.

Thomson pledged Roemer the assistance of Robert Sorenson, national safety council representative, and Gordon May, of the state motor vehicle department.

Contractors in Waupaca Seek Injunction Talks

Will Meet With County Officers On Wrecker's Use

Waupaca — Private contractor representatives and county highway committee members and officials will meet Tuesday at the courthouse to discuss the court order now in effect which prevents the county from doing any private work other than in the conservation field.

Early in December the county was handed the injunction from Circuit Judge Bunde asking the highway department to show cause for doing private jobs. Under a 1951 state law counties were barred from private business.

After nearly three months of living with the order, the matter was again brought up at the Feb. 11 county board meeting. At this meeting several contractors explained their stands and ideas on softening the order.

William Sidor of Lakeside wrecker could be used under Sand and Gravel said area contractors were trying to get the emergency clause in the statutes, but learned that it was equipment necessary to do any highly improbable.

Sidor said he thought the ben Nelson suggested that they be able to do odd jobs and that the county shops might be opened to private individuals.

Highly Improbable Robert Donaldson, engineer, asked if equipment like the can be done to temper it.

Crash Results in Damage to Rural Fremont Garage

Fremont — A garage owned by Herbert Meydam, route 1, Fremont, was the victim of a highway accident about 2:30 Sunday morning.

Cars involved were driven by Clifford Hahn, 19, route 2, Fremont, and Robert R. Gorges, 34, Fremont.

Both cars were traveling west on Highway 10 about two miles east of Fremont. The Hahn car was struck by the Gorges car and thrown about 150 feet into the Meydam garage, which collapsed.

Capt. Royal Myhill, of the Waupaca county traffic patrol, said both cars were damaged extensively. No injuries were reported.

5-Months-Old Child Found Dead in Bed

Sheboygan — A five-month-old Gregory Greiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Greiner, was found dead in his bed today, a blanket over his head. Dr. Reed Simpson, Sheboygan county coroner, said that the child had been dead several hours when found by his mother.

Sidor said he thought the ben Nelson suggested that they be able to do odd jobs and that the county shops might be opened to private individuals.

Highly Improbable Robert Donaldson, engineer, asked if equipment like the can be done to temper it.

Skiers Plan New Slope on Hill Near Waupaca

Proposed Site Said To Be Largest in Fox Cities Area

Waupaca — Area ski enthusiasts can look forward to skiing on one of the best and largest hills in the state beginning next winter should the proposed ski site near Waupaca materialize.

Interested skiers met Thursday to discuss the new hill located about three miles northwest of Waupaca on Highway 10.

The hill is owned by Kenneth Hemmingson and presently has a small timber stand on it. The skiers plan to obtain the hill from Hemmingson on a long term lease and clear the wooded area this spring.

1,100-Foot Run Excellent skiing would be provided since the hill has a vertical drop of 225 feet with the longest run being 1,600 feet. The main slope has a 900 foot run at the steepest part.

It's size would make it twice as large as New London and larger than Eagle River, King's Gateway, Mus-ski mountain, Woodruff and Sheltered Valley ski areas.

A chalet and two tow ropes are also planned by the backgroup hopes to sell stock in the Work on the project is expected to begin late this winter and be completed by fall. The

Set Meeting to Protest Cut in Milk Supports

Shiocton —The Fair Price committee today announced that a public meeting will be held at the Black Creek Community hall at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon.

All farmers, businessmen and other interested persons were invited to attend by the committee. Speakers are being contacted including Gov. Thomson, State Sen. Gaylor Nelson and leaders of farm and business groups in Wisconsin.

A petition will be presented in an effort to stop a proposed cut in dairy supports —until a new dairy program is put in effect.

A vote will be taken to determine what type of dairy program would be preferred in this area, according to Marvin Obry, principal of Shiocton High school, who is assisting with arrangements.

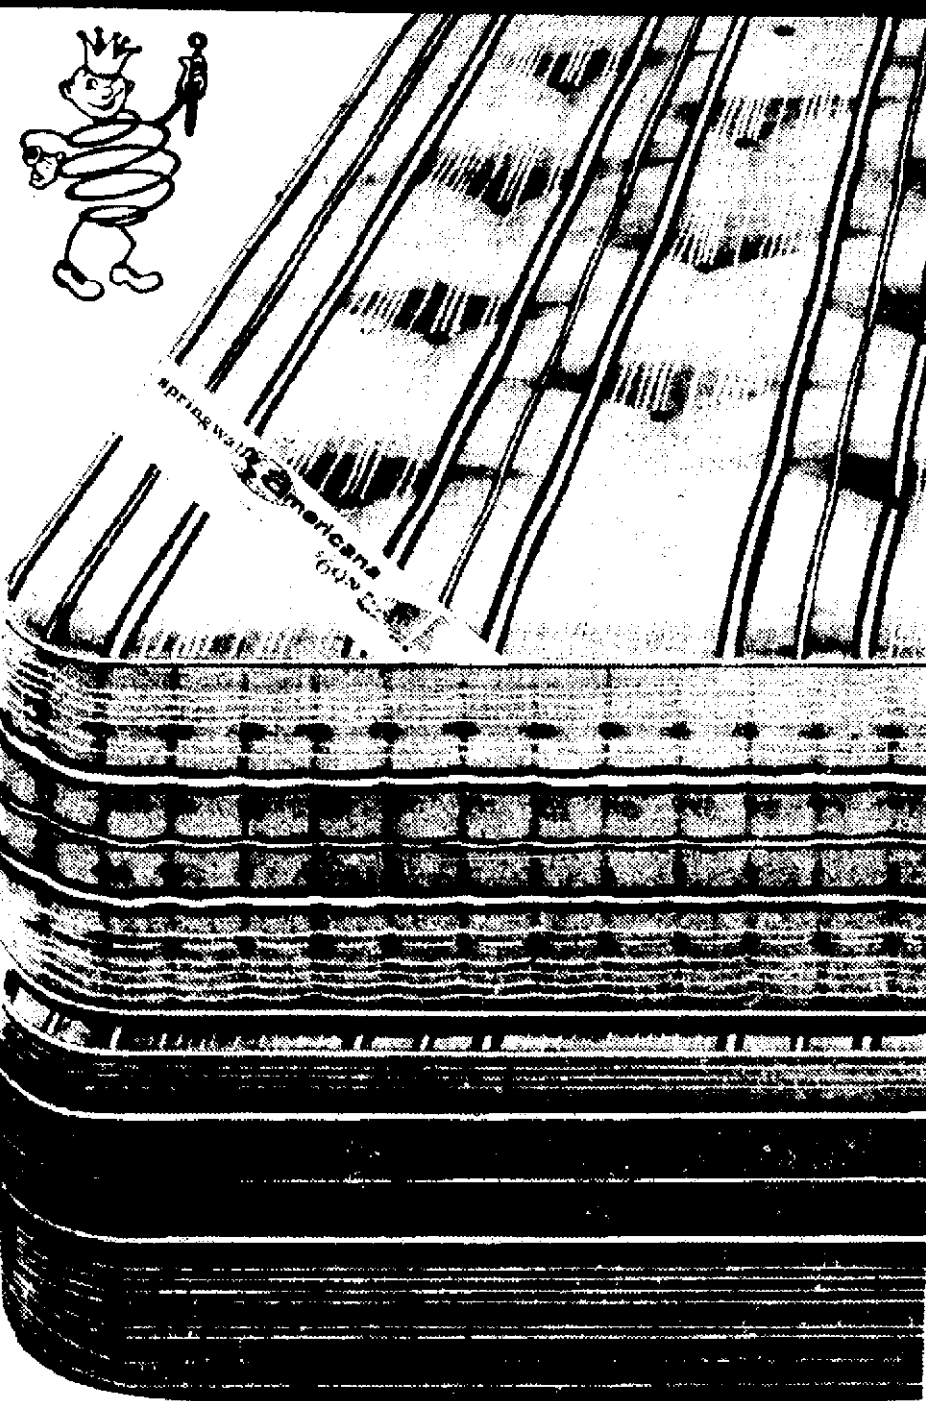

"We hope that everyone will come and express their views," Obry said.

Neenah — Robert J. Schumann, 25, Oshkosh, was fined $100 and costs this morning for drunken driving by Justice of the Peace Mayhew Mott. Schumann pleaded guilty and lost his driver's license for one year.

He was arrested shortly after 1:30 Sunday morning on S. Commercial street after police saw his car speeding south toward Oshkosh in a reckless manner. Police stopped him after clocking the car 65 miles per hour in a 35 miles per hour zone.

Schumann admitted that he had been drinking, and tested .21 per cent alcohol in the bloodstream on a drunk-o-meter. A reading of 15 per cent is considered evidence of intoxication.

New Resuscitator Helps Save Life Of Menasha Boy

Menasha — A 9-year-old Menasha boy may owe his life to a modern resuscitator used by the Neenah fire department. Bobby Jaykoski, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jaykoski, 804 Plank road, suffered a heart attack shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday night. Firemen in the Neenah ambulance rushed to his home and used the pneumatic resuscitator for a few minutes to help the boy breathe, but when the boy failed to ex-hale the air pumped into his lungs the new Seeler resuscitator, developed especially for the German air force in World War II and now produced in America, was rushed to the home by the Neenah fire department.

The Seeler machine recently purchased by the city, gives erable damage to both vehicles. The patient to inhale and exhale the French car which was parked on Nicolet boulevard, way to Theda Clark hospital and Mrs. Lloyd Hewitt, 649 Ninth all the way up to the X-ray street, received chest and back room and to his hospital room injuries when the car was struck by the driving struck a parked car in Seeler unit contains enough for front of 821 Ninth street at 10:58 an hour's use, about twice as much as the other units in the ambulance. Crews Begin Work on Installation of Beams For Hy. 41 Overheads

State Commission Approves Contracts For Interchanges at Neenah, Oshkosh

Neenah — Placement of pre-cast concrete beams to form the deck for the Highway 41 bridge spans began this morning at the Highway 114 and N. Plummer court intersections. The concrete beams take the place of steel beams in bridging the gap between the piers and the abutments of the grade separations. They will serve as the base for the concrete surfacing which will be installed later.

The beams installed today are 35 feet in length for the Highway 114 span and 60 feet long for the N. Plummer court overhead.

Crews of Highway Pavers, Inc., which has the contract for the six grade separations from Highway 114 to Highway 150, are finishing the work on the south abutment for the Highway 150 span which will complete the work on that overhead.

Work has just begun for the overheads at Main street and North street.

The state highway commission has informed Leon Morrissey, county highway commissioner, that it has approved the contract with C. R. Meyer and sons of Oshkosh for the next five overhead structures on which bids have been received.

These are for the viaduct over the Soo Line tracks and the grade separations with County Trunk PP near Neenah and County Trunk BB at the Outagamie county line, which are part of one contract, and the Highway 110 and 21 spans near Oshkosh, which are a separate contract.

Its bids were $406,339 for the two spans near Oshkosh and $356,196 for those in the Neenah area. The contracts are being sent to the governor for his signature.

The Neenah relocation calls for a 4-lane road from a point near the Bridgewood golf course north of Highway 10 in Outagamie county. The two grade separations at Oshkosh will provide for 4-lane traffic and within several years that area also will be four lanes in width.

Bids will be taken in several months for grade separations and traffic interchanges of the cloverleaf type for the Highway 44 and 26 intersections with Highway 41 west of Oshkosh.

Stomach Trouble Can Be Caused By Nerve Irritations

By Upton X. Furman
Chiropractor, Neenah

The stomach is a strong muscular organ very richly supplied with blood vessels and nerves. In its lining are embedded glands which secrete digestive fluids and hydrochloric acid. The function of the stomach is to aid in the digestion of fats and proteins. No starch digestion takes place here. It also breaks down food particles into a fluid mass. That is why it is advisable to chew your food well so that your stomach does not have to do the work of your teeth.

The stomach is completely surrounded by a layer of nerves which control its movements and secretions. You have all noted this reflex action when at the sight or smell of food your mouth waters or your stomach rumbles.

In view of the foregoing facts it is easy to understand why any nerve irritation can cause stomach trouble whether it be from a state of mind or mechanical pressure from a vertebrae out of place in the spine. The Chiropractor is especially trained to locate and remove these nerve irritations.

for March 9 and among the items to be found are students who have not been attending meetings. At that meeting devotions will be under the direction of the senior high fellowship.

Rockets Stop Jays In 3 Extra Frames

Neenah Makes 4 Charities in Free Throw Session for 41-37 Win; Remains in Title Picture

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Neenah — Neenah's aspirations for a piece of the Mid-Eastern conference basketball championship were still very much alive today as the result of Saturday's exciting 41-37 win over Menasha, a tilt which took four quarters, two overtimes and a round of free throws to decide.
Thus with one week of conference play remaining, the Rockets have an 11-2 mark and can gain a share of the crown by defeating first-place Shawano here next Friday. Neenah's overall mark is 16-2. The defeat was the first for Menasha after five straight league wins and gives them 7-6 in league play and 8-9 for the year.

Scores in previous Neenah-Menasha encounters have varied from 3-2 on one extreme to 82-78 at the other with Mar-to shoot first and Dave Thomsen and Bill Kuehl connected. Menasha's Tom Stepanski and Jim Hansen both missed. It was Neenah's turn again and Fred Seggelink scored. Ed Meyer failed but Gene Gries came through with the fourth Koslowski Thomsen success giving the Rockets that 41-37 edge with Menasha just having three throws left. The Jays declined to shoot the final trio, thus the four point spread.

The contest was tied five times in the first period until Neenah made the last five points of the frame for a 13-10 edge. By halftime, Menasha was in front 23-21.

Rockets Tie Score
Neenah's Seggelink, who, if his ankle was still bothering him, didn't show it, opened the second half with a rebound shot at 7:07 to tie the score at 23-all. The Jays proceeded to hold the ball until the 2:35 mark when Gordy Selbach was called for charging. Thomsen converted for a 24-23 Neenah lead. Fifteen seconds later, Thomsen was detected charging Selbach and the latter tied the score at 24-all. Single free throws by Gries with 2:01 and 1:10 left gave the Rockets a 26-24 lead at the end of three periods.

Still playing possession ball, Menasha held on for the first 1:25 of the fourth quarter until Don Nelson tied the score at 26-all with a long shot. Twenty seconds later, Seggelink came through with a tip in and there wasn't any more scoring until 3:36 when Selbach made a short shot to tie the score at 28-apiece.

A minute later, Thomsen put Neenah ahead 30-28 with a pair of charities and with just 1:12 time and after the Rockets built up a six-point bulge in the second, Menasha fought back for a 37-all deadlock, thus bringing about the free throws.

Neenah won the flip, chose the first overtime, tried a hot shot and missed. Menasha took over at 2:06 and retained control until Nelson's unsuccessful attempt with 12 seconds left.

Jays Get Tie
In the second overtime, Thomsen broke in for a basket and Stepanski made a free throw for a 32-31 Neenah lead. The Rockets notched five straight points, two by Meyer and Thomsen and a free throw by Seggelink to go ahead 37-31.

With 37 seconds on the clock, Selbach scored on a jump shot, the Jays stole the ball and Jerry Koslowski scored off the fast break at the 25 second mark and after Neenah missed a free throw, Selbach raced down and put in a layup with nine seconds left to tie the score at 37-all. Neenah failed on a final shot and then came the free throws.

Among the numerous salient features of the game was the fact that the 10 starters played the entire game. Neenah point-honors went to Seggelink and Thomsen with 18 and 13 respectively. Selbach had 19 to claim Menasha and game laurels. The Bluejays had a 15-14 Paul has already clinched the field goal edge but Neenah's 13-7 free throw advantage was more than enough to offset that margin.

The box score:
Neenah—37 FG FT F
Selbach 7 5 3 Seggelink 8 2 1
Thomsen 2 0 0 Thomsen 4 3 2
Koslowski 3 0 0 Meyer 0 2 3
Hanson 1 0 0 Gries 1 3 1
Stepanski 2 2 4 Kuehl 1 1 4
Totals 13 7 11 Totals 14 13 11
Neenah 13 8 5 4 0 7 4-41
Menasha 10 13 1 6 0 7 0-37
Free throws missed: Neenah 7 (Seggelink 2, Thomsen 2, Gries 2, Meyer 1, Hanson 4, Stepanski 2, Nelson, Selbach).

Rocket Yearlings Defeat Bulldogs

Neenah — The Neenah freshmen closed with 1957-58 basketball season with a 41-38 non-league win over New London there Friday afternoon. The Rockets trailed 11-10 at the quarter, 21-18 at halftime and 33-32 at the end of three frames but posted a 9-5 edge in the final period.

Paul Felton scored 14 points, Forrest Hyde had 10 and Mowry Stip seven for Neenah. Gary Herres made 12 and Beckman had 10 for the Bulldogs.
The win gave the Rocket yearlings a 3-9 record for the season. They had 1-9 in Valley Freshman league play.

Jubilant Plus! That describes the reaction of Neenah Cagers toward Gene Gries, right, who had just made the winning free throw in the Rockets' 41-37 win over Menasha Saturday night. Neenah's No. 100 is Fred Seggelink. Neenah won after two overtimes and a round of free throws. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Off to Big Start
The Falcons found that the Reliance horses were just too tall and too big to be beaten Sunday. The visitors got off to a good start in the first quarter by sinking 27 points, eight of them on Joe Meuwisen's four buckets, while the hosts could muster only 21 points.

St. John gave away another six points in the second frame when the Reliance squad netted 65, as a second half spurt improved a shaky halftime lead. Only in the third quarter did the hometowners hold their fire. Reguests down, outscoring the visitors 17 to 14. The Reliance five bounced back in the fourth quarter with a healthy 29 points to St. John's 25.

In the consolation round the Hewitt Machines, though outscored from the floor, used 23 free throws in beating the Subway bar team. Hewitt's scored 30 buckets, two less than the Appleton squad, but their 23 free throws were seven more than Subway's and they won by three points.

Hewitt also topped Reliance in free throws in the semifinal game, but the Green Bay team's 40 field goals were 10 too many for the Neenah cagers and they lost, 90 to 79.
In the other semifinal contest St. John took the measure of the Subway bar squad, 78 to 65.

Brooks Named Head of Neenah Museum Center

Appointment of Art Director Revealed Today

Neenah — The appointment of Charles M. Brooks, Jr., as executive director of the Neenah Municipal museum was revealed today. Brooks, head of the art department of Lawrence college, was appointed about 18 months ago by the foundation committee of the museum which was set up under the will of the late John N. Bergstrom, who died in 1951.

The Bergstrom home, 165 N. Park avenue, which the paper company co-founder's widow occupied until her death, is to become the city museum and art center.

Bergstrom left $50,000 to the city for the foundation of a museum and art center in his will and Mrs. Bergstrom deeded the home to the city in 1953 for the museum building. A special foundation committee was set up the same year.

The Neenah Municipal museum has already sponsored two shows at the Worcester Art center at Lawrence college. A third event is scheduled for Tuesday evening.

Brooks said that the museum sponsored a showing of 28 pieces of rare German and Bavarian glass throughout March, 1957. The glass pieces were the gift to the museum of Ernst Mahler of Neenah. In May, 1957, 28 pieces from Mrs. Bergstrom's famous collection of more than 500 American and European paperweights were shown.

The third museum-sponsored event is an illustrated lecture on a 16th century wooden figure of the Virgin Mary, which will be given by Lawrence Steefel of the college art department at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Worcester Art center.

Brooks said that the museum even though having no building, has not been dormant since its foundation in 1953. More exhibits and programs are expected when the museum moves into the Bergstrom home.

Since the organization is for the public and is tax free, the foundation had to find a place for public exhibits. The college art center is serving until the Bergstrom home is remodeled, Brooks said.

Remodeling and other work will not begin for several months, Brooks said. Before any work can be done on the building Mrs. Bergstrom's will must be probated and her personal effects disposed of.

The executive director will speak in Neenah Tuesday afternoon to members of the Tuesday club.

Grade Supervisor Talks on Reading To Jack, Jill Club

Winneconne — Miss Edna Pa-lecek, elementary supervisor, spoke to the Jack and Jill club Thursday night at the Central school on "When a Child Learns to Read."

She illustrated her talk by distributing pamphlets for study in which symbols were used which were foreign to the readers, teaching them to read from these. She also told the reasons for grouping and emphasized that physical health was part of the reason for grouping.

Attendance this year has been especially poor because of a large amount of illness. Fifth grade children under the direction of Mrs. Edna Hutchinson opened the program with patriotic choral readings and songs. Mrs. John Eld read a letter on National Library week which is March 12 to 22.

Sheboygan — The good burghers of northside Sheboygan heaved a collective sigh of relief Saturday night when they saw the last of Appleton High's Jack Uwellling.

The amazing AHS backcourt operator, who has scored an average of just under 23 points a game against Sheboygan North in six contests during his 3-year career, bid an explosive farewell to the North High gym here Saturday night with a 31-point outburst in a 72-55 Appleton win. He had tallied 30 points against the Golden Raiders in a 72-46 Terror triumph earlier this season.

Saturday's victory — their ninth straight — sends the Terrors into Friday's regular season finale, with visiting Green Bay East, tied with Manitowish for first place in the Fox River Valley conference. Many also concludes its league season Friday, against Green Bay West.

The hosts gave the Terrors a few worries for a while here Saturday but Appleton was much too good a ball club for Coach Charles "Bump" Jones' run-and-shoot outfit.

Keeps Building Margin
Appleton, which didn't have to play one of its best games to handle North easily, just kept building onto its margin after overcoming its opening difficulties.

After Uwellling—who bounced back with a vengeance from his 11-point evening against Oshkosh Friday (his lowest output of the year)—the next best AHS scorers were Dick King and Howie Hamann with 10 tallies apiece.

King dropped in four of six field goal attempts. Hamann, who collected just four of 14.

Ends Host Clubs Long Drought

For the first time in eight years, a "home" rink took the bows in the winner's circle of the Appleton Curling club's invitational bonspiel Sunday afternoon.

The Appleton quartet, skippered by Lew Phenner, downed Chicago's Mel Cribbs, 10-9, in the finals of the first, or Papermakers, event. The Phenner unit is the first Appleton champion of the bonspiel since skip Clarence Robertson and sons — "Dobbie," Doug and Mal — won it in 1950.

Members of the title rink, in addition to Phenner, are Ed Murray, George Klein and Horace Taggart. The same group curled together last year and won the second, or Sherry Motors, event.

Appleton's Joe Schulerberg is the 1958 second-event champ, giving the host club the top two honors. Schulerberg nipped club-mate Bob McGee, 11-10, in the finals. Rounding out the Schulerberg rink are J. H. Millar, Neil McLeod and Frank Porter.

The champion of the third, or City of Appleton, event is Wayne Myers, Wausau. The Myers rink topped Harold "Red" Mather, 1957 grand champion, 10-7, in the third-event finals. The Myers rink was skipped by Earl Edwards. Other members were Sam Morrison, Dale Leath and Robert Dudley.

On its title march, the Phenner rink defeated Bob Winkler, Clintonville; Bob McGee; Dale Wilson, Waltham, Ill.; and Cribbs.

This marks the third time in the 13-year history of the 'spiel that Murray has been on a championship rink. In the first two instances, he curled with an out-of-town unit — Dave Bowlby in 1946 and Tom Moran in 1948.

For the other three title-rink curlers this is the first experience with a winning quartet in this 'spiel.

If anyone had been clairvoyant enough to foresee Lawrence college's long-shot, history-making, 71-66 basketball victory over Cornell last Saturday night, he could have done any painter a big favor by advising him to be at Alexander gym.

For the "Portrait of a Victory"—depicting the emotional results of a team's breaking a losing streak at 36 straight, longest in school history—could have become the sports canvas of the year.

The artist could have caught the unique spirit of the occasion no matter which of several diverse subjects he chose.

He could have painted Don Boya, who instead of doing a coach's traditional leap for joy after an important win, sat incongruously, head in hands, sobbing quietly. This was the emotional release for a young, ambitious coach who had taken over a team with 20 straight losses, then watched it absorb defeat 16 successive times—despite the unlimited enthusiasm and considerable basketball knowledge he had put into the job.

Answer to Critics
With a winning background as a player and high school coach, Boya had never guessed a victory could come so hard. But, no matter if he goes on to join Adolph Rupp and Hank Iba as "500 victory" college coaches, he'll never forget that first one. Or, the artist could have "caught" the expression of one of the active Viking players just before the final whistle. While waiting for a Lawrence free throw situation, the Vikes, almost to a man, stole a glance at the scoreboard. What they saw (a 70-66 lead with only 2 seconds remaining) brought unsuppressible smiles to the sweat-streaked faces of four 40-minute battlers and one 6-minute man (Tom Kayser) who finished up because Jack Close fouled out. They had done it! After endless frustrations, they

New London Upsets Ghost Quint, 58-45

Kaukauna — The New London Bulldogs spoiled Kaukauna's hopes for an alumni-night booster basketball win here Saturday night by roaring to a 58-45 upset decision over the Ghosts.

second quarter, Kaukauna moved to a 17-14 advantage but here the Bulldogs stepped in and started to make free throws count in their favor. The invaders made 10 charity tossers in the second quarter and moved to a 34-25 lead at the halfway mark.

The Ghosts, unable to control the backboards, attempted a pressing defense which attributed greatly to the foul-goes. The Ghosts made 19

New London countered with an effective zone which forced the Bull-Kaukauna to settle for shots from the outside. The losers hit 12 points in the third quarter while New London settled basket for Kaukauna, but goals for nine.

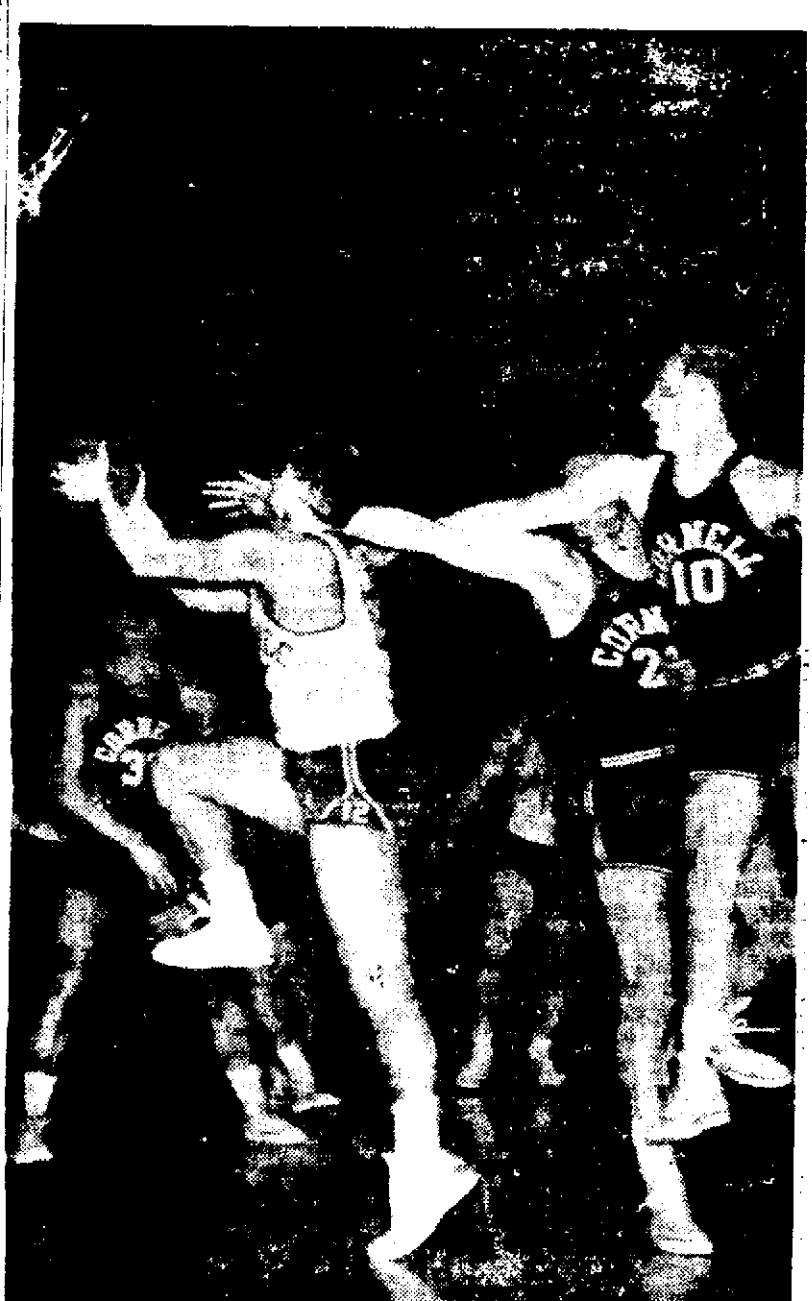

Both teams started slowly before Dale Monsour of the Bull-Kaukauna made a bid to lead for the remainder of the first period. The Bulldogs led, Zachowski and Weyenberg all 12-11, at the end of eight minutes of play.

Glaser Ties Point Record as Warriors Trip Western Michigan

Milwaukee — A corn on his foot shares the blame for Jack Glaser's loss of a chance to break a basketball record in Marquette's victory over Western Michigan Saturday night.

Glaser, who has only one more college game to play, scored 29 points for the Warriors as they whipped Western, 96-68.

The talented senior left the court early in the second half as Marquette Coach Jack Nagle cleared the bench of substitutes. The Warriors were 25 points ahead at the time.

Nagle Didn't Know
Nagle said Sunday he didn't know then that Glaser's 29 points had tied the individual scoring record at the Western Michigan fieldhouse.

"If I'd known about the record," said Nagle, "I certainly would have let him stay in a few more minutes and put his name in the record book."

But we were so far ahead and, besides, Glaser was slightly bothered by a corn on his foot; I thought it was better to rest him.

Another Record
Glaser wasn't the only player who missed setting a record Saturday night. Edgar Blair led Western Michigan with 21 points, increasing his career total to within two points of Western's all-time individual scoring mark of 457.

Glaser, the only senior among Marquette's regulars, makes his last appearance before the home crowd here Tuesday night against Valparaiso.

The game also will be Na-gle's last here as Marquette's basketball coach. Nagle, citing "personal reasons," resigned a few weeks ago.

The Warriors close out their season Thursday night against Drake at Des Moines, Iowa.

Oshkosh Quint 'Kills Pointers' Title Hopes

By The Associated Press

La Crosse kept its basketball title hopes alive in Wisconsin State College conference action Saturday night, but defending champion Stevens Point fell out of contention.

La Crosse scored 12 straight points midway through the second half to pull ahead of Stout for an 85-79 victory.

The Pointers dropped a 94-90 decision to Oshkosh.

Platteville, which beat St. Norbert, 50-44 in a non-conference game at home, leads the league with a 9-1 record.

In other games, Eau Claire walloped Superior, 101-87, and University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee trounced Whitewater, 109-85.

Eau Claire's Bob Morgan was the top scorer in Saturday night's games with 36 points.

Ron Akin of the Oshkosh Titans and Laverne Luchstorf of Stevens Point each scored 33 points.

fouled out midway through the fourth quarter. Tom Verkuilen, Appleton's other 6-4 senior, had been whistled out of the game on fouls a bit earlier in the final period.

Sophomores Ron Abel and John Nussbaum once more did all that was expected of them. The two started the second half with King, Hamman and Ulwelling—and except for a 30-second spell on the bench by Abel, played the entire third quarter. Both the 6-5 Abel and the 5-10 Nussbaum were eager rebounders.

Quickly Tie Issue
Ulwelling took 25 shots and swished 15 of them, the best field goal output in his AHS career. Of Jack's 15 baskets only three were launched from within 20 feet of the hoop.

The rest were long 1 - hand jumpers from outside the Reid defense.

North took an opening 4-0 lead as the capacity crowd in the noisy Raider gym roared. The Terrors quickly tied the issue on a Tom Verkuilen rebound basket and a Dick King drive-in.

A Randy Prange medium jumper put the hosts on top again (6-4) with 5:30 left in the quarter but then Howie Hamann buried a pair of free throws to square things once more.

After a Randy Hake and an Ulwelling bucket made it 8-8, King scored again and Ulwelling pumped home two more baskets for a 14-8 lead with about 2:30 showing in the period. Appleton never again trailed.

Reserves Take Over
The winners were in front, 20-14 at the first rest.

The orange and blue moved to a 26-16 advantage as the second quarter opened but then the losers tallied 13 of the next 18 points to pull within two markers (31-29) late in the stanza.

Charlie Klauk (6-3) had three points and Jim Hensel (5-10) four during the ascendancy.

Then, the aroused visitors poured in four straight fielders, three by Ulwelling in a closing rush for a safe 39-29 halftime lead.

With Nussbaum and Abel in the lineup and Ulwelling keeping up the pressure with eight

In Saturday's victory Co-Captain Dick Bjornson won three events—the 100-yard free style, the 220-yard free style, and the 200-yard backstroke. Bjornson's 100-yard free style win saw him break a long-standing Viking team record of 55.8, set by R. Lougee in 1952. Dick's winning time was 54.9.

Co-Captain Mike Lepawsky won the 200-yard breast stroke, swam on the victorious 400-yard medley relay team, and placed second in the 160-yard individual medley. Mike Murphy won the diving and swam on both winning Lawrence relay teams while Rod Stecher was on the victorious 400-yard medley relay squad, placed second in the 200-yard back stroke, and third in the 440-yard free style.

Michigan State Quintet Meets Purdue Tonight

All 4 Contenders Are Victorious Over Weekend

By The Associated Press

The Big Ten basketball race, gradually turning into a scheduled ulamaker's dream, reaches the showdown stage tonight when first place Michigan State invades Purdue.

A glance at the schedule indicates Michigan State, (8-3), Purdue (7-4), Indiana (6-4) and Iowa (6-4) will put on a dog-eat-dog scramble before the season closes a week from Saturday.

After battling runnerup Purdue, Michigan State's remaining games are against Iowa and Indiana. And Purdue's slate reads:

Indiana Saturday, Iowa next Monday.

Final Game
However, chances are matters will not be settled completely until Michigan State and Indiana, defending co-champions, meet at East Lansing on March 8, the final day of the season.

All four contenders were victorious Saturday night. Michigan State trounced Wisconsin, 93-59, Iowa defeated Illinois, 83-79, Purdue ripped Minnesota, 88-79, and Indiana drubbed Ohio State, 88-83.

In a regionally-televized matinee, Northwestern beat Michigan, 75-66, at Ann Arbor.

Aside from the Michigan State-Purdue game tonight, Michigan will be at Indiana, Iowa journeys to Northwestern and Wisconsin moves in on Minnesota.

Lawrence Ends Cage Losing Streak at 36 could draw the sweet breath of victory.

Only Bill Wood and Jack Leatham of the six who saw action, had ever participated in a winning collegiate game—and that pair hadn't experienced the sensation since March 6, 1956, when Ripon was beaten. This, Vike this year, played his top game. The hefty veteran dropped in five of 10 shots (most of them long ones) en route to a 12-point contribution and played an aggressive floor game.

Bob Blust's ball-handling skill was indispensable and he teamed up with Close and the rugged Willie Weber to give Lawrence the edge in rebounding.

In the second half, the Vikes picked off 16 defensive rebounds—which helped no end in restricting the high-scoring Rams to 28 points for the period.

Kayser proved a capable replacement when fouls got the better of Close.

Despite their high-percentage field goaling, the Vikes had to rely on free throws to cement the win. They made 21 out of 36, while Cornell had 12 for 19.

Robison Scores 19
The smooth Cornell offense was led by Bill Robison and Altenburg, who produced 19 and 17 points, respectively. Robison canned nine of 18 field shots, while Altenburg hit seven of 19.

The Vikes served their fans an early appetizer for the main course that was to come by swishing everything they threw at the basket in the first three minutes—five field goals and two free throws. The fired-up Vikes went on to sink seven of their first eight floor shots and ran up 18 points in the first 4 minutes, 40 seconds while Cornell was getting none.

Robison and Altenburg quickly chewed away six points of that lead, but the Vikes calmly went back ahead by even nine (26-17). Cornell knew it managed a small grin and began enjoying the fruits of victory. And why not?

The game marked the end of the what was undoubtedly the nation's longest collegiate losing streak and possibly the beginning of better things to come for Lawrence.

Lawrence continued to outshoot the Rams until they led, 65-59. Then with 51 minutes to go, the Vikes adopted stalling tactics. Cornell almost thawed out the "freezer" several times and in fact pulled to within two points, 66-60, with 55 seconds left. But, the Vikes successfully ran out the clock and poured in three insurance gift shots in the bargain.

Cornell was unable to contain the cyclonic antics of Wood. The Kimberly veteran drove the Cornell defense ragged. His drives produced six of his eight baskets and earned him 16 chances from the free throw line. He sank 12 of the gift efforts for a cool 75 per cent rate.

The nifty Close sank nine of 13 shots, including the last six he tried. He outmaneuvered the Ram defense continually to get position for lay ups (six of them) and tip-ins (three).

Leatham, who probably has improved more than any other Vike this year, played his top game. The hefty veteran dropped in five of 10 shots (most of them long ones) en route to a 12-point contribution and played an aggressive floor game.

Bob Blust's ball-handling skill was indispensable and he teamed up with Close and the rugged Willie Weber to give Lawrence the edge in rebounding.

Lawrence College Cheerleaders and fans are exuberant with happiness as the Vikes are on their way to a 71-66 decision over Cornell Saturday night—a win that broke a losing streak at 36 games. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Satellite Launchings Most Interesting Events in Years

BY RAMON COFFMAN

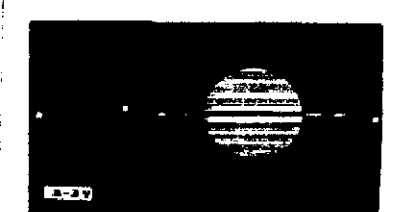

A young reader, Arnice Sloan, has sent me a question about satellites. She asks:

"Is it true that the artificial satellites have been the biggest events of the past two years?"

It seems to me that there has been greater interest in the satellite launchings than in any other events during the past several years.

While I was traveling through Europe last fall, people in every country appeared to have the Russian sputniks on their minds. The successful launching of the first American satellite in January added greatly to public interest.

For the first time men have proved that they could place so-called "heavenly bodies" in space. Although nothing considered "permanent" has been launched so far, it is remarkable that an object can be made to circle the earth in a few hours, and to keep on doing that for months or years.

Artificial satellites are smaller than any natural satellite known to exist in this solar system. They revolve more rapidly than any moon. They circle the earth even faster than the little moons of Mars.

A friend asked me the other day:

"How would you like to be on the Explorer and be able to get back to the earth safely, then to write about the adventure?"

I should prefer a larger rocket in which to ride, in addition I should wish to feel more sure than is possible now that return to earth would be safe.

Years ago I predicted in this column that people would use rocket planes, in due course, to make one-hour crossings of the Atlantic. With the thought in my mind of the Explorer circling the globe in two hours, I consider the prospect of such a fast trip to Europe more reasonable than ever. A little later, there may be one-hour journeys between Tokyo and New York City.

Lawrence Says:

Soviets Hope to Foment Another War in Korea

Reds May be Talking Glibly While Planning Second Armed Conflict

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — The Soviet Union, aggressor in Korea, is now trying to foment another war in that area.

While talking glibly of an east-west conference, the Moscow regime may be laying plans for another Korean war—this time with the hope of crushing South Korea.

The stealing of a passenger plane inside the territory of the Korean republic is a flagrant violation of the armistice. The move was engineered as a means of starting another Korean crisis. The communists say they will release the prisoners if the South Koreans recognize the North Korean government. This is a cruel way to deal with human lives. It means indefinite imprisonment for the innocent South Koreans and Americans who were on the plane. It's an odd way "to reduce tension," which the Moscow regime constantly avows as its purpose.

The first step was taken a few weeks ago when Premier Chou En-Lai of the red Chinese regime in Peking went to North Korea and arranged with the puppet government there to publicize a plan that would provide for the withdrawal of all "foreign troops" from both north and south Korea. This means, of course, that the red Chinese troops would move back a few miles to the banks of the Yalu river while the U.N. troops presumably would get out of the Korean peninsula altogether. Then the attack could be resumed at any moment, and it would be difficult for the U.N. troops to be shipped back promptly.

This is not a new proposal. It has been made time and again and has been rejected by the U.N. Because it palpably is a strategic maneuver to take over by force of arms the South Korean republic.

Danger Arises

The danger of war arises because the South Koreans will not hesitate to fight if there is the slightest evidence of military action by the reds.

The Soviet government will be responsible for the second Korean war even as it was responsible for the first Korean war. The United States government holds the Moscow government to blame for aggression in Korea. One document issued by the United States government through the Department of Defense on May 15, 1954, needs to be re-read at this time.

It was issued in Washington during the foreign ministers' conference in Geneva at which "unification" of Korea under U.N. auspices was rejected by red China and the Soviet Union.

Vyshinsky, Russian representative at the United Nations, arrogantly admitted in March 1953 to the U.N. general assembly that the Soviet Union "continues" to supply arms to red China in the Korean war.

Wishful Thinking

Yet there are wishful-thinking Americans and organs of so-called "liberal" thought which would let bygones be bygones and give recognition to red China and admit that regime to the security council of the United Nations. True liberalism does not compromise with gangsters and aggressors. It doesn't accept the "status quo" and forsake oppressed peoples.

It doesn't abandon idealism because this is supposed to be expedient. It does keep burning brightly in the minds of the enslaved the hope that free men will not forget them but will continue to give them moral support.

There is only one way to prevent another Korean war. It is by standing firmly against the Soviet scheming in the far east and letting it be known that the United Nations cannot be persuaded to withdraw its forces until there are ironclad guarantees that agreements will be kept. And this seems far distant in the light of the continuous violation of the existing armistice agreements in Korea by the communists.

Air Service

CAB Hearing Opens Tuesday

Fox Cities Airline Schedule to be Set After Hearing Issues

The civil aeronautics board Tuesday in Washington opens a hearing on airline service for the Fox Cities and several other Wisconsin cities.

The hearing on service by North Central airlines to the Outagamie county airport will come up later this week, with statement of the county's position scheduled Thursday.

North Central filed an objection to a CAB examiner's recommendation for service to the Fox Cities. The examiner had recommended a route which included Appleton, Marshfield, Eau Claire and Minneapolis.

North Central proposed two flights daily for a Minneapolis-Appleton-Chicago route and two return flights. The four flights daily would bypass Green Bay, Oshkosh and Manitowish.

Atty. Gen. Stewart Honeck has said his office will send a staff member to the hearings. The county board's airport committee has recommended attendance by Corporal at Counsel Raymond Dohr and he was to meet with the executive committee today about attending the hearings.

Service Certain

No matter what is argued at the hearings, the Fox Cities seem sure to get airline service. No objections to airline service as such have been filed, only differing views of the type of service.

The county, through the state aeronautics commission, has filed for federal and state aid for constructing a cross runway and administration and terminal facilities. Estimates of cost have varied from $150,000 to $230,000, with the cross runway taking the bulk of the money.

A civil aeronautics inspector spent about half a day at the Outagamie county airport in what the federal agency calls a routine site inspection. The inspection is to determine if the airport qualifies for federal aid. It is routine before any extension of aids.

The inspection consists of an examination of approaches, runway, runway surface and lighting facilities.

The present hard surface runway at the port is 3,700 feet long. The cross runway would run northwest-southeast across the present runway and would be 3,200 feet long. Under existing federal-state aid, the county and state will split half the cost, with the federal government paying the other half.

However, the 1957 state legislature cut the state aeronautics budget and the state's share of the Outagamie port improvement will be cut to about 10 per cent, upping the county's cost share to about 40 per cent of the total.

Airport backers expect the aid approval to come this spring, with construction to begin shortly after. The cross runway work will not affect use of the present main runway, Max Sagunsky, port manager, says.
